PREACHER DENOUNCES BAPTISM OF INFANTS

Startling Statement in New York Pulpit Causes Congregation to Applaud.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, at the 100th meeting in the Evangel tent today, assailed the doctrine of baptism. He declared that the dropping of water on an infant at birth was heathenism and that the idea that God would forever condemn an innocent but unbaptized babe makes Him a tyrant.

That utterance, coming from Dr. MacArthur, had a wonderful effect on his hearers. They rose to their feet and applauded wildly. The scene was striking.

"Baptism," he declared, "never saved a human soul. The doctrine of baptismal regeneration is both unreasonable and unscriptural. The superstitions that have gathered about infant baptism form one of the saddest chapters in church history. Thousands through all the ages have believed that a child dying without being baptized was eternally lost. This dark and dreary superstition has cast a gloom over the history of the church for centuries.

"This doctrine is heathenism, pure and simple. The idea that God would forever condemn an innocent babe because some one has not put a few drops of water on its head and face makes God a tyrant. Rather than believe in such a God I would be an avowed infidel.

"This doctrine of baptismal regeneration makes the minister of religion a worker of magic, a fakir, a performer of ecclesiastical miracles. Such teaching is a violation of all sound reason and true scripture teaching."

GERMAN LEAD HITS HAITIEN WAR VESSEL

Firmin's Gunboat Is Sunk After Being Fired by Her Own Sailors.

PUNISHED FOR ALLEGED PIRACY

Given but Five Minutes to Surrender, Which Was Extended to Fifteen.

BLACKS BREAK FAITH AND SHIP IS DOOMED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Sept. 7.—The gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot, which was in the service of the Firminist party, has been sunk at the entrance of the harbor of Gonaives by the German gunboat Panther. The crew of the Crete-a-Pierrot left her before she went down.

Officers of the steamer Paloma, which left Port-au-Prince yesterday evening, say the German gunboat Panther arrived there Friday afternoon and left Saturday morning at 2 o'clock, after having cleared for action. She went to seek the Crete-a-Pierrot.

Letters received from Port-au-Prince intimate that it was the intention of the Panther to sink the Firminist gunboat.

First Fired by Her Own Crew.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, HAITI, Sept. 7.—The German gunboat Panther arrived here September 5 and received instructions from the German government to capture the Firminist gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot. She left immediately for Gonaives, the seat of the Firminist government.

The Panther found the Crete-a-Pierrot in the harbor of Gonaives, and the commander of the German gunboat informed Admiral Killick, on the Crete-a-Pierrot, that he must remove his crew and surrender his vessel in five minutes. Admiral Killick asked that this time be extended to 15 minutes. This request was granted on the condition that the arms and ammunition on board the Crete-a-Pierrot should be abandoned when her crew left her.

The crew of the Crete-a-Pierrot left that vessel amid great disorder. At the end of 15 minutes the Panther sent a small boat carrying an officer and 20 sailors who were to take possession of the Firminist gunboat.

When these men had arrived at a point about 30 yards from the Crete-a-Pierrot flames were seen to berak out on board of her. She had been fired by her crew before they left her. The Panther then fired upon the Crete-a-Pierrot until she was completely immersed. Thirty shots all told were fired.

Soldiers are leaving here to attack St. Marc. Port-au-Prince is calm.

Alleged Act of Piracy.

The German gunboat Panther arrived at Port-au-Prince September 5. It was announced from Cape Haitien September 3 that the German steamer Markomannia, Capt. Nansen, belonging to the Hamburg-American Packet Company, having on board arms and ammunition sent by the provisional government to Cape Haitien, had been stopped September 2 by the Firminist gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot at the entrance to the harbor of Cape Haitien and that an armed force sent on board the steamer from the gunboat took possession of the war munitions in spite of the pro-

DROPPED DEAD AS HE WAS SINGING "SOME SWEET MORN."

Well-Known Oak Hill Resident Passed Away at Christian Endeavor Meeting.

WAS LEADING SERVICES

While singing the closing verses of the hymn, "Some Sweet Morn," in the First Presbyterian church of Braddock, John Dooley, one of the church leaders, dropped over on the floor dead. Dooley's voice could be heard distinctly through the gathering, and when the last strains of the hymn were heard he fell to the floor.

Dooley was 40 years old and married. He was employed in the Edgar Thomson steel works as a clerk. Last night he left his home in Oak Hill and was apparently in the best of health. He was the Christian Endeavor society last night at a special meeting in the church. He was prominent in the church work and a frequent leader at these meetings.

He addressed the gathering and sat down. Later the congregation started to sing the hymn, "Some Sweet Morn." Dooley's voice could be heard above the rest. At the closing of the hymn he fell on the floor dead. Several members of the congregation who were standing nearby lifted him to his chair. A physician was summoned, but when he arrived Dooley was beyond all aid.

Dooley is survived by a widow and five children. His death greatly shocked the congregation and his family were overcome when they learned of his death. Coroner Jesse M. McGeary was notified and Deputy Coroner George Mercer was detailed to make an investigation.

Takes Advantage of British Consular Reports from Spain to Boom American Firms There.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Malaga, Spain, says that as a result of the British consul at that place having called attention to openings for British trade, the agents of two American firms are now there prospecting for the construction of two new railroads.

"Helping Our Rivals" is the heading given by the Daily Mail to this dispatch.

THE DEADLOCK WILL BE PICKED BY QUAY'S HAND

Showalter May Not Recognize the Rules That Call for Action.

HARD ROW TO HOE AS INDEPENDENT

By WALTER J. CHRISTY,
Staff Correspondent.

Greensburg, Pa., Sept. 7.—M. S. Quay, chairman of the Republican state committee, will be asked to fix a time and place for a congressional conference in this district. Under the rules it is his duty to arrange for the conference.

Congressman Joseph B. Showalter, the candidate of Butler, has so far refused to meet Col. George F. Huff of Westmoreland under the rules adopted by the Pittsburgh conference. Showalter is willing to meet if the old conference system, giving each county equal vote, is to be the method employed in making the nomination. Westmoreland insists that a nomination must be made under the new rules.

E. B. McCormick, chairman of the Republican county committee, and one of Col. Huff's conferees, has the matter in charge. He believes the only course open to him is to adhere to the Pittsburgh rules and request Chairman Quay to call a conference. The letter will be sent tomorrow. It is believed that Quay will recognize the rules, name a time and place of meeting and notify Congressman Showalter and Col. Huff to be present with their conferees.

As the time for filing certificates of nomination for congress dos not expire until September 23, it is probable that Chairman Quay will not call a conference until next week. If Showalter does not participate, after a reasonable notice has been given, Westmoreland will proceed to nominate Col. Huff, as this county will have a majority of the conferees.

Whether Mr. Showalter will try to have the courts set aside the nomination is not known here, neither does it appear to be bothering the gentlemen who have Col. Huff's interests in charge. Showalter's chief contention is that the Butler representatives in the rules conference were not clothed with authority to bind that county.

If Showalter sticks to his original program he will be an independent candidate. Should he do this he would have an uphill fight. There are 16,000 Republican votes in this county, as against 6,000 in Butler.

In Butler Showalter could not fare so well as an independent candidate. The factions are not together there at present as they are in Westmoreland, and the candidacy of Showalter would tend to force them farther apart. The leaders of the regular branch of the party all recognize the validity of the rules and say if Col. Huff is nominated he will receive their support.

The candidacy of Showalter probably would mean an independent fight against the Butler candidates for judge and assemblymen, as they are friends of the congressman.

POWDER EXPLOSION DEMOLISHES AN OLD GOVERNMENT FORT

One Man Is Killed, Five Are Injured and Two Are Missing.

BOSTON EDIFICES SHAKEN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Sept. 7.—One of the government powder magazines at Old Fort Winthrop, on Governors island, upper Boston harbor, blew up this evening with a detonation that was heard at points 20 miles away. The explosion is supposed to have been caused by boys setting fires on the island. One dead man and five injured were brought to the city by the police boat, and while it is believed that this is the extent of the casualties, it is possible that others may be found suffering from the force of the concussion.

The dead man is Albert H. Cotter, but further than this nothing is known about him. The injured are James A. Crowley, aged 21; Christian Knudson, 39; Charles Flannagan, 23; Dennis J. Swanson, 24, and Paul Barry, 26, all having flesh wounds, besides suffering from the shock.

The missing are Joseph E. Wakefield of Malden and James Ryan of East Boston.

Negotiations have been pending some time for the release of the island by the government to the city as a part of the latter's park system, and although the transfer has not been formally completed, the guard over the island has been somewhat relaxed of late, and as a result numerous clubs and pleasure parties have made use of it, especially on Sundays, the government's only representative there being the ordnance sergeant. There are several old wooden buildings at the southerly end of the island, but the fort itself, only a little of which is visible above ground, is of stone, some of the granite blocks being of immense size.

The force of today's explosion is shown by the fact that some of these great blocks were hurled several hundred yards, while one of the largest was sent into the air and carried down through the citidel in the center of the fort, making a hole large enough to drive a team of horses through. All over the island the effects of the explosion are visible, while in East Boston, South Boston and in the city proper the concussion was severe enough to break windows and shake buildings to their foundations.

MUST FIGHT MOROS.

Mindanao Chiefs Reject All Friendly Overtures from the American Officers There.

MANILA, Sept. 7.—Capt. J. J. Pershing, in command of the American force at Camp Vicars, island of Mindanao, reports to Gen. Chaffee that several Moro chiefs whose followers have attacked American soldiers, have rejected all friendly overtures. The breaking of negotiations with the Moros, Capt. Pershing reports, probably will bring on a crisis in the Moro situation.

The military records show that since the Bayan fight last May the Moros have made 12 attacks upon American soldiers, killing four Americans and wounding 12, including one officer.

BLAMED FOR THE STRIKE.

Gov. Stone, President Baer and Others Blamed for Miners' Conditions.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Sentiments of a radical nature, as censure of President Baer, Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania, President Roosevelt and of mine owners generally and blame for the conditions now existing in Pennsylvania, were expressed by speakers at a mass meeting at the First Methodist church tonight.

Immediate arbitration of the difficulties between the miners and the corporations was the keynote of the meeting, and resolutions appealing to Gov. Stone to act in the matter were adopted. Pastors, lawyers and sociologists were among the speakers.

BARTHOLIN BODY FULLY IDENTIFIED

Detectives Have No Doubt About Suicide of Murderer.

WANTED SUSPECTS CLEARED OF CRIME

Confession Left By Dead Man Exonerates Prisoners Held in Chicago.

LETTERS FROM VICTIM FOUND ON THE CORPSE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Riceville, Ia., Sept. 7.—The body which was buried here yesterday and which was believed to be that of William Bartholin, was exhumed this afternoon and positively identified as that of the Chicago double murderer. The identification was made by William Mitchell, a brother of one of Bartholin's victims, and Detective Andrew Rohan of Chicago, who arrived here this morning from Chicago.

Dr. A. J. Coey, a dentist of Chicago, who came here with Detective Rohan, cut out the lower jaw of the dead murderer, which contains two gold crowned teeth, which have figured so largely in the description sent broadcast throughout the country for purposes of identification. Coey identified the dental work. The jaw will be taken to Chicago by the detective.

Inquiry here developed the fact that Bartholdin came to Riceville August 6 before the bodies of Mrs. Bartholin and Miss Mitchell were discovered. Thomas Phee, a contractor doing some work here for the Great Western road, advertised for laborers in Chicago August 5, offering free transportation to the place of work. Among those who responded was Bartholin, who hired under the name of George Edwards. He worked at the construction but half a day and afterwards was working on a threshing machine and in the harvest fields until last Sunday morning, when he was last seen leaving Riceville in the direction of the place where his body was found.

The text of the confession left by the suicide, as made public by T. S. Carpenter, coroner of Howard county, follows:

To whom it may concern: I want to state I am the Bartholin the police are looking for. Also wish to certify I had no assistance of any kind from any one. Thompson, Claffy and Counselman are all as innocent as an unborn child and should be freed at once.

I cannot go into details in regard to the crimes. They were not planned. It was all Minnie and I could do. My mind is wandering. Such a time in this short time. Two months ago traveling in the best of company; today living the life of hoboes; a murderer.

I intended to go into details and tell all, but I can't get my mind centered. Even my handwriting is disgraceful.

But above all things, I ask to clear everybody from suspicion. There is no second party, I am the last. W. J. BARTHOLIN.

Several letters from Minnie Mitchell, one of the victims, were found in the coat pocket of the suicide.

SOUTHERN ARMS WERE OPEN FOR THE PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Sees Historic Battlefields Around Chattanooga.

LED THE CAVALRY DURING RAPID RIDE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 7.—President Roosevelt was the guest today of the citizens of Chattanooga, and right royally they entertained him. He came to Chattanooga primarily to attend the national convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and tomorrow he will be the guest of the railroad men.

From early morning until late this evening he was taken from one historic place to another, and the details of the battles that have made this city famous were explained to him by men who were participants in the struggles. The battlefields of Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob and Lookout Mountain were driven over. The president attended services tonight at the First Baptist church, of which the Rev. J. W. Brouger is the pastor.

The presidential train arrived here at 8:30 a. m. A large crowd was at the station and the president was accorded a warm welcome. A committee headed by Gov. McMillin entered the president's car and welcomed him to the city.

Too Swift for Troopers.

At the entrance to Chickamauga park the Seventh United States cavalry under command of Col. Baldwin which acted as the president's escort through the park were drawn up. The president with Gen. Boynton mounted horses and after the other members of the party had entered carriages the drive through the park began.

The president started his horse at a sharp trot and for a mile and a half led the regiment a merry chase over the battlefield. The pace was so hot that several of the troopers were unhorsed, and it was necessary to call the ambulance corps into service.

Divine services, which the president attended, were held on the park grounds. At their conclusion the president made a short address to the soldiers. He complimented them upon their soldierly appearance and also for the splendid drill they had shown. He said he had enjoyed his ride with them very much. His remarks were frequently interrupted by hand-clapping and when he concluded the soldiers, led by Col. Baldwin, gave him three hearty cheers.

Gets Present of Cane.

A very pleasing incident occurred shortly before the president resumed his inspection of the battlefield. A delegation of citizens of Georgia, headed by H. R. Harper of Rome, presented to him a cane cut from the Chickamauga battlefield. It is of hickory, with a silver head and band suitably inscribed. On the head is the following:

"Presented to President Roosevelt by citizens of the Seventh congressional district of Georgia, September 7, 1902."

On the band are the names of six of the generals who participated in the battle of Chickamauga—Longstreet, Wheeler, Hood, Rosecrans, Thomas and Boynton. The Seventh George district was the home of President Roosevelt's mother and he alluded to this fact in accepting the gift. The presentation speech was made by the Hon. Moses Wright of Rome, to which the president responded as follows:

My Dear Mr. Wright: I cannot say how touched and pleased I am. I imagine no gift that would have pleased me more than to have the young men from my mother's state present me this cane with the name of six generals, three of whom wore the blue and three of whom wore gray, but whose descendants and kinsfolk are equally loyal to the flag as it now is. I want to mention one curious thing. You have on here Gen. Wheeler's name. I served under him at Santiago. Gen. Hood fought in command of the Southern army. One of his sons was in my regiment and fought with great gallantry. I am so much obliged, I can't tell you how I appreciate it. I only could have been more appropriate and given in pleasanter spirit and exactly at the right time. I thank you most warmly.

Immense Crowd Cheered.

Accompanied by Gen. Boynton and the other members of his party, the president proceeded to Point Lookout, where a magnificent view of the valley of the Tennessee was had. Here Gen. Boynton welcomed him in the following words:

"I am glad to welcome an American prince and doubly glad to see you and your secretary here after the accident of last week."

The president responded with a smile and a bow.

SHOT TWO MEN, ESCAPED AMID HAIL OF LEAD

Daring Burglars Looted Two Houses in Glassport.

ONE MAN WILL DIE FROM HIS INJURIES

Escaping from Contractors' Camp, Had Pitched Battle With Pursuers.

A NEGRO SUSPECT IS NOW UNDER ARREST

Two houses were entered and robbed, one man fatally shot and another seriously wounded by two burglars in Glassport early yesterday morning. The daring and desperate character of the marauders has caused great alarm in the town and the population is thoroughly aroused.

The injured are:

JAMES BERNAK, aged 40, shot through left breast. At McKeesport hospital; will die.

JOSEPH LEO, aged 30, shot through the knee. At McKeesport hospital; serious.

The first burglary, during which the shooting occurred, was one of the most daring ever attempted in the county. The two nervy robbers entered a shanty tenanted by 10 Italian laborers and coolly started to take all the money the inmates had. When discovered they shot all who attempted to interfere with them and made their escape with $62, while a perfect hail of bullets followed them from the guns of the infuriated Italians.

Afterwards Robbed House.

This occurred at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. At 9 o'clock they entered and looted the house of A. B. Barchfield on Euclid avenue, getting watches, jewelry and cash to the value of $125.

Bowman Bros., contractors, have 10 of their Italian workmen quartered in a shanty near the baseball grounds at Glassport. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning Joseph Leo, one of the men, awakened and stepped outside the shanty. The men had several tiers of bunks around the walls, in which they slept.

Leo walked several yards away and was surprised to see two men, one white man and the other a negro, make a sudden dash into the shanty. The negro stood guard at the door, but did not see Leo at that time.

His companion climbed up on one of the top bunk and began a systematic search of the clothes of the inmates, 29 of whom had been paid on Saturday. He secured $60 from Robert Morris and $2 from another man, when one of the sleeping Italians awoke and his cries soon aroused the rest. They tumbled out of their bunks only to look into the muzzles of revolvers in the hands of the robbers.

Bernak Was Shot Down.

Bernak, urged on by his companions, made a dash for the door to summon aid. He stopped when he ran plump against a revolver in the hands of the negro burglar, but a few moments later tried it again.

This time he was stopped by a bullet that entered his left breast, tore a hole in his lung and passed entirely through his body. By this time the entire neighborhood had been aroused, and both burglars, covering their victims, stepped outside the door and ran. They almost ran over Leo and the negro also shot him.

As Leo fell to the ground the Italians swarmed out of the shanty armed with revolvers of all kinds and calibers. They opened fire on the fleeing burglars and kept up the pursuit for some time. Whenever they got too close the fleeing men would turn around and drive them to cover by a fusillade. No one was hurt in these skirmishes, however, and the burglars made good their escape.

Suspect Arrested.

The Italians did not notify the McKeesport authorities until rather late yesterday morning, when their two companions were removed to the McKeesport hospital. Detective Adi Bierncamp, Constable Charles Moore and Chief of Police Patrick Morrissey, all of McKeesport, immediately went to work on the case.

About 5 o'clock last evening, Morrissey placed William Young, a negro, under arrest and he is now lodged in the McKeesport lockup, accused of being one of the burglars.

He was identified by Morris. A hat picked up near the shanty was also identified as belonging to Young. A short time after Young's arrest, John Stewart, another negro, who boarded with Young in McKeesport, was arrested. Stewart said he came home late on Saturday night or early Sunday morning, but could not get in, and, believing that Young had not yet returned, he went to sleep outside. At daylight he awoke and again rapped at the door and was admitted by Young.

Morris says he saw Young at the contractors' headquarters on Saturday, when the Italians were being paid, and the McKeesport police are of the opinion that the robbery was planned then. No clue has yet been discovered as to the identity of the white men who was implicated.

Refuses to Talk.

Young has stubbornly refused to give any information or admit his guilt. The physicians at the McKeesport hospital have no hope for Bernak's recovery, and say he will die before morning. Yesterday the Italians packed up their belongings and will no longer reside in the shanty.

The residence of A. R. Barchfield, on Euclid avenue, was entered at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The burglars secured two solid gold watches, several other articles of jewelry and $9.65 in cash. The boldness of the robbery has startled the community. Mrs. Barchfield and her sister were conversing on the front porch at the time and left the inner rooms of the house vacant. The burglars secured entrance through a rear door, went to the upper rooms and were able to get away with plunder worth $125 without being detected. The police are confident that the two burglaries were committed by the same men.

FILTRATION AS VIEWED BY OLD CITY EMPLOYE

James J. Brennan Has Some Interesting Ideas on the Question.

COST OF PROPOSED PLAN WILL BE HEAVY

He Revives an Old Suggestion About Using an Island and Following Out That Idea Sees Free Water for Pittsburgh.

James J. Brennan was for 18 years connected with the city's pumping station at Brilliant, most of that time as chief engineer. Naturally he knows considerable about the city's water supply. He has been watching with close attention the moves made in the direction of filtration, and now that the matter is to again get into councils, through the transmission today of the completed filtration plans and the estimate of the total cost that Director J. Guy McCandless of the department of public works has had prepared in his department, he is still more interested. In talking on the filtration question yesterday he said:

"From the most trustworthy sources we find that there are over 10,000,000 gallons of 'filtered' or distilled water sold daily in Pittsburgh, in addition to that obtained from artesian wells or springs. The private water supply has developed into a large business, as may be judged from the fact that the filtration plants of the companies have a daily capacity of over 2,000,000 gallons each.

Effects of Water Compared.

"The statement has been made that the prevalent fevers are due to the present city water. In this connection there may be cited conditions in the prominent residence districts, the Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first wards, in which the best known plumbing and sanitary precautions are in vogue; where the streets are sprinkled and swept daily, and where the municipal scavengers are at work constantly. The 'filtered' water is used extensively, yet despite all, disease holds sway even more than in the lower quarters of the city, where the utmost carelessness of hygiene and lack of attention from the street bureau, together with a limited supply of 'city water' are among the conditions.

"I do not wish to cast discredit upon the sanitary engineer who has done so much for the general good, yet experience would appear to confirm the opinion that common 'city water' is not an unbearable evil, nor the filtered article such an unalloyed blessing under ordinary conditions.

"In absence of expert opinion and a full knowledge of the proposed filtration system, we may take a common sense view of the water question without wasting unnecessary effort on minor details.

What Sand Beds Mean.

"First. The sand beds must be below low water mark to secure a full supply of water at all stages, then below this level there must be a receiving basin, which should be of heavy masonry to support the immense weight imposed upon it. On account of the uncertainty of the Allegheny river a flood time, when a rise of 28 or 30 feet is not uncommon, protective embankments would be needed to insure the safety of the station.

"After completing these beds, it may be found that the level in the catch basin is too low for the present engines at the water works. This would necessitate the erection of a low service station at the filtration beds.

"In passing we may hear the opinions of some engineers as published in the daily press. One who draws a salary of over $5,000 per annum thinks the whole station would have to be covered to prevent freezing in winter, while another holds to the opposite theory. Other propositions, to go here and there for forces of supply, have been made, so that the public, no doubt, is at a loss to know or judge of the new water supply.

"No correct estimate of the cost of installation or maintenance has as yet been made definitely, nor has the means of delivery been settled. No one knows whether it is to be brought over the Allegheny to Brilliant by tunnel, overhead conduit, or towed by the municipal fleet of the station. Yet after patient waiting an official guess in the matter is to be made at last.

Estimate as to the Cost.

"Without presuming to pass upon the wise plans drawn up, I may suggest that from information at hand, a fair estimate would require one acre for every million gallons of water obtained by sand filtration. This simply means that about 150 acres will be required to supply the city and provide sufficient space for the station, which will entail an expenditure of from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 for installation.

"The cost of maintainence can be judged only by the fact that a corps of experts and mechanics, with a large force of men, must be kept for the operation of the plant, which will also require a complete power plant, and means for renewing the sand beds. Yet, with all this elaborate system, the main object of purifying the water will not be secured, as it is a known fact that such filtration will clarify, but not purify water, as the objectionable portion of the water will readily dissolve and pass with the water through the interstices of the sand.

"It would appear that the opinions of physicians, as well as engineers, might be of value on this question, and I am sure that if any were asked they would agree that air and sunshine are the best purifying agents, which may account for the excellent quality of water we have in our summer jaunts to mountain and country.

Suggestion as to Good Supply.

"In order to secure a good supply, I suggested some years ago that the city obtain possession of Nine-Mile, or some other island well up the Allegheny river (almost any would afford 1,000 acres) and excavate to rock bottom, using the earth obtained for the outer embankment, which should be of sufficient height to prevent the influx of surface water and debris.

"Then, after exposing the rock, it could be pierced to the gravel which underlies the stratum referred to, and the result would be an abundant supply of pure water from nature's filter, which is perhaps as effective as any. The water thus obtained would flow by gravity through a conduit to Brilliant, whence it would be pumped into the eastern or small compartment of the Highland reservoir. A weir wall should be built extending the full length of this basin, and the water allowed to flow over in a film, which would permit the air and sunlight to perform their sanitary offices, after which the water would be ready for distribution at a much lower cost than at present.

How Free Water Can Be Had.

"The last triennial assessment of the city gave $505,000,000 of taxable property in Pittsburgh. The last appropriation for the bureau of water was $253,000. Now, if we add the amount of this appropriation to the present property tax, it would cause an increase of only seven-tenths of one mill, and as our watchful controller has promised, and I think can effect a reduction of taxes to 10 mills, we can, with pruning and abolishing pet offices, raise an amount sufficient to run the bureau of water, and abolish the water tax, while affording abundant pure water for everybody. Indeed, with the increase in the coming triennial assessment, this boon can be obtained without any perceptible effect on the taxpayer.

"Now is the time to secure an unfailing supply of this great cleansing agent for all, which will result in a more healthful condition of the masses and assist immeasurably in the advancement of the Greater Pittsburgh. Let clean, pure water run everywhere it may be needed—on the streets and in the alleys and courts; in the mills and factories and shops; in the home—and let it be free, for if the present filtration scheme goes through, the man of means will sink his own wells, and the small property holder will bear the burdens of measured water."

Chinaman in a Hospital Thought His Queue Was Going to Be Cut Off.

Wing Lee, a Chinaman of No. 311 Grant street, became so terrified last night when the physicians at the Homeopathic hospital started to remove part of his hair in order to dress a wound that he jumped from the operating table and it was only after some difficulty that he was placed under control again.

As the surgeons were about to apply the scissors to his hair he screamed out in the most terrified manner:

"No-e, no-e; don't-e cut que-e!" Let-e me die-e, just the same-e."

With this the Chinaman jumped from the table and broke from the physicians. He crouched himself in a corner and fought. The physicians decided to send for some of his countrymen and to talk to him rather than have any excitement about the place. Several Chinamen came to the hospital, and after assuring the injured Chink that his queue would not be disturbed, he decided to let his scalp wounds be dressed.

Wing Lee was injured in a fight with an unknown colored man yesterday afternoon. The negro entered his restaurant and ordered some chop suey. It was served him, but the negro refused to pay for it. The Chinaman started to remove the dish, and the negro picked up a stool and struck him on the head, and then escaped.

BODIES OF FAIRS REACH NEW YORK

REMAINS OF AUTOMOBILE VICTIMS LANDED.

Passengers on Steamer Not Aware of Mortuary—Dock Hands as Pallbearers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—In a specially constructed mortuary chapel on the upper deck of the steamship St. Louis, which reached her dock today, were the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair, victims of an automobile accident in France. The chapel was draped heavily in black, caught up with broad bands of white ribbon, and rare floral offerings were banked around the bier in great profusion. The caskets were removed to the Grand Central depot and placed on the palace car Ben Wyzis, which was attached to the Chicago special that left at 6 p. m.

It was not known to the passengers of the ship that the bodies were on board until noon on Friday, when the ship was a little more than 24 hours from Sandy Hook. In some way the news was spread through the salon dining room and created intense excitement. From that time until the ship reached her dock, great interest prevailed among the passengers and many applications were made to Capt. Passow for permission to view the mortuary chapel, but all were refused.

Even after the ship was docked and the caskets were removed from the pier, the American line officials refused to allow any one except the immediate relatives to enter the chapel. This morning two plain black hearses, with closely drawn curtains, drove on the dock, followed by an ordinary public carriage. In the carriage were Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., sisters of Mr. Fair.

In the presence of the two sisters, the plain pine boxes which formed an outer covering for the caskets in shipment were opened. Inside this was a wrapping of heavy lead, hermetically sealed. This was opened and the caskets removed. Each body rested in a plain casket of maple unpolished and unadorned with trimmings of any kind, save four broad bands of silver which were bound around each shell and riveted in place.

The caskets were borne in the hands of dock laborers. Six to each casket, dressed in blue jumpers and overalls, the picture of these sturdy workmen acting as pallbearers was only another striking commentary on the utter lack of display which marked the entire reception of the bodies.

Neither Mrs. Vanderbilt nor Mrs. Oelrichs would give any information as to the final disposition that would be made of the bodies. The hearses, however, left the pier, followed by the single carriage containing Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Oelrichs. They were driven direct to the Grand Central depot, where the caskets were placed in the palace car Ben Wyzis. On the casket containing the body of Mrs. Fair was a large cross of white roses, on the other an ivy wreath.

Tampered With the Alarm Box.

An alarm of fire was turned in in a mysterious manner yesterday afternoon from box No. 115, in Thirteenth street, below Penn avenue. When the firemen arrived no fire was to be found. The door of the alarm box was open, but no key was fastened in the lock.

The boxes are so arranged that when a key is placed in the lock and the door opened it is held there until released with a release key, which no persons except the fire chief are supposed to carry. It is believed the door was opened yesterday by some one skillfully picking the lock.

ENSIGN MORGAN AGAIN TROUBLES NAVAL PEOPLE

Dictates a Long Letter to the Department, Preferring Charges.

EXTRA MEASURES TAKEN TO KEEP IT QUIET

The Gunner Who Got Admiral Sampson Into Trouble Goes to Williamsport to File His Accusations in the Matter.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 7.—Ensign Morgan of the battleship Minnesota, who became known throughout the United States by reason of an act of bravery before Santiago while he was chief gunner of the New York, and who was recommended for promotion to ensign, which resulted in a letter from the late Admiral Sampson in which he stated that none but college graduates were qualified for promotions to naval offices, again promises to stir up trouble in the United States navy department, and if attention is given the long letter which he has prepared for submission to the department there will be an investigation involving naval officers.

During the past week Ensign Morgan has made three trips to this city for the purpose of dictating his letter to Miss Thompson, a Philadelphia stenographer, who was here on a visit. Today the letter, which contains about 4,000 words, was finished, and Morgan said it would be mailed to the secretary of the navy at once.

The exact character of the complaint has not been given out, nor would Morgan mention the names of naval officers whom he says are concocting stories to injure his reputation. He did say, however, that a superior officer had charged him with having been drunk on a certain occasion recently. Morgan says he is in a position to prove the accusation entirely false.

Ensign Morgan was extremely cautious as to his statement and the fact that he came to Williamsport to prepare his letter is believed to be part of the program to keep the matter an entire secret. Late this evening he started for League island, where he is to report for duty.

ARRANGING CELEBRATION.

Catholic Total Abstinence Union to Observe Father Matthew's Birthday.

The Catholic Total Abstinence union of the Pittsburgh diocese, is making preparations for the celebration of the birthday of the Rev. Father Theobald Matthew, the apostle of temperance. This occurs on October 10.

The Rev. Father John G. Beane, president of the local union, has already invited some of the eminent temperance workers of this country. Among those who have accepted are the Rev. Morgan M. Sheedy of Altoona and the Rev. Fathers J. F. Regis Canevin and Daniel Devlin of this city.

The celebration promises to be the largest temperance gathering seen in this city in many years. The national union of this body meets here next summer. The officers of the local organization propose to have their district in splendid shape by that time.

To Pension Railroad Men.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company is devising a plan for the establishment of a permanent pension roll for aged employes. Thousands of circular letters have been sent out the past week to employes with a view to making a statistical report to the directors at their next meeting. This pension fund will be entirely gratuitous on the part of the company.

Wall Paper Plant Burned.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 7.—The plant of the Campbell Wall Paper Company at Rogota, near Hackensack, was burned tonight. The loss is $175,000. The mill closed down indefinitely last Wednesday. About two weeks ago the works passed into the hands of the Union Paper Company. Five hundred hands had been employed.

HE CELEBRATED HIS SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

REV. DANIEL MATTHAEI.

The Rev. Daniel Matthei, pastor of the First German Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, celebrated yesterday the sixth anniversary of his pastorate. Dr. Matthaei preached his anniversary sermon in the evening. The pulpit was filled in the morning by the Rev. C. F. Heitmeyer, a former pastor of the church. Mr. Heitmeyer spoke highly of Mr. Matthaei's work. During the six years of his pastorate the church has made commendable progress in every department. It is entirely free of debt. An informal reception was tendered him at the close of the service last evening.

INDIANA COUNTY BOY LEGALLY DEAD

STRANGELY MISSED FROM MILITARY PRISON.

Having Been Absent Three Months, His Name Is Dropped from the Army Rolls.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.—Second Lieutenant Robert S. Wiggins, Fourth cavalry, has been dropped from the rolls of the army, and under the statutes is officially dead, so far as the military service is concerned. He has been carried on the record of the adjutant general's office since June 7, as "whereabouts unknown, absent without leave," and the three months in which the law allows the war department to carry on its rolls an army officer who has disappeared, expiring yesterday, the name was dropped in public orders.

Wiggins was a promising youngster, born in Indiana county, Pa., on January 31, 1873. He enlisted in the Third cavalry as a private in the spring of 1898, and rose rapidly until he procured a commission through competitive examination in July, 1901. His home was at Milo, Ia.

His case involves more mystery than those of several officers in the Philippines who wandered away from posts and were never heard from afterward. Less than four months ago young Wiggins was performing exemplary service at Fort Riley, Kan., when word suddenly came to the war department that he was under arrest there, and kept in confinement pending his trial by court-martial. No one in Washington has known what were the charges brought against the officer. They were never reported to the war department. All that came from Fort Riley was the announcement of the incarceration of Wiggins, and the subsequent fact of his sensational escape from imprisonment.

He was closely watched, but one night he substituted a dummy in his cot, and took advantage of the absence of the guard who returned to his vigil and kept a close eye for the remainder of the night on what turned out to be an arrangement of the bed clothes. Wiggins has not been heard of since, and the suspicion has gained ground that his disappearance was not unwelcome to his immediate superiors and subordinates in the garrison.

TIED UP TRAFFIC.

Small Freight Wreck in the East End Causes Delay on the P. R. R.

A small freight wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad at the foot of Emerson street, East End, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, tied up freight and passenger traffic, both east and west, for over an hour. No person was injured and the property loss to the railroad company was comparatively trifling.

The accident occurred while a shifting engine was hauling half a dozen cars to the repair shop at Pitcairn, from the Twenty-eighth street yards. Behind the engine were several flat cars, one of them containing the framework of a caboose.

At Emerson street one of the empty flat cars suddenly jumped the track, pulling the flat car with the caboose with it, and both turned over on the opposite track. The caboose was reduced to kindling wood and the two flat cars badly wrecked. The cars fell in such a way that all tracks were closed and it took a wrecking crew over an hour to clear the road.

FIGHT OVER NEGRO.

Man Uses Crowbar Effectively on Another's Head.

A blacksmith, employed on the Wabash railroad, was badly hurt yesterday at noon at the railroad camp at head of Washington avenue, Carnegie. He was hit over the head with a crowbar in the hands of another workman of the railroad, causing a severe scalp wound, and had also a knuckle on the right hand broken. The trouble is said to have been caused by a negro laborer entering the white men's tent, which the blacksmith is alleged to have resented. Another white man took the negro's part, and after a few words struck the blacksmith over the head and on the hand.

The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. E. G. Husler of Carnegie, who dressed the man's wounds. No arrests had been made up to last night, and the Carnegie police were unable to give any information. The man's name could not be learned.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia.

It makes life miserable.

Its sufferers eat not because they want to, but simply because they must.

They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.

They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffy fulness, headache, heartburn and what not.

MINE POLICEMAN BEATEN BY MOB OF FOREIGNERS

Accidentally Wounded a Woman and Is Set Upon by Strikers.

TEETH AND ONE EYE KNOCKED OUT

After Being Rescued the Officer Is Taken to Prison, Where He Is Threatened With Lynching. Fired Into Crowd.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 7.—A small-sized riot occurred at Edwardsville, a mining town near here, tonight. Hiram Fisher, employed as a coal and iron policeman at No. 4 mine of the Kingston Coal Company, was on his way home in company with his son and another officer, when he was held up by some striking miners.

It is alleged that the strikers threatened Fisher's life, when he pulled his revolver and fired two shots into the crowd. Both bullets went wide and struck a Polish woman, Mrs. John Kaskmaugh, on the arm. Mrs. Keskmaugh was seated on the stoop of her home. Dr. Kunkle was called and found that the wounds were not serious.

After Fisher fired the shots he did not have a chance to get away. The foreign miners gathered in large numbers and when they heard that he had shot a woman he was knocked to the ground and beaten in a terrible manner. All his teeth were knocked out and an eye was gouged out. Some English-speaking miners finally came to the man's rescue and he was taken to the town lockup. His injuries were dressed by a physician. A large crowd of foreigners surrounded the lockup tonight and they threaten to lynch the prisoner.

REBELS MAY HAVE TAKEN AGUA DULCE

Panama Authorities Believe the Besieged Government Garrison There Is Defeated.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PANAMA, COLOMBIA, Sept. 7.—The government Gen. Morales Berti, who has been besieged by the insurgent forces, under Gen. Herrera at Agua Dulce, probably has been defeated. The government gunboats returned here last night from an exploring expedition. Officers of the expedition report having landed at Yeguala, where the insurgent garrison was defeated after a slight skirmish. A few insurgent prisoners were captured, and it is from these men that the news of the government defeat at Agua Dulce has been obtained.

Gen. Berti had been besieged since July 28. The troops of his command must have suffered terribly from lack of supplies during the last days of the siege, and it is said they were compelled to eat horse flesh. Up to August 30, Gen. Berti had not surrendered, but since that date he is believed either to have done so or to have forced his way out of Agua Dulce.

GERMANY'S WAR GAME.

The Hostile Army, Known as the Blues, Popularly Supposed to Represent Russia.

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-ODOR, Sept. 7.—In preparation of the autumn maneuvres, which begin next Tuesday, 92,000 troops are spreading over the country side in two armies. One is marching to the eastward from here by various parallel roads, while the other is marching westward from Posen.

The hostile army, the Blues, is popularly assumed to be Russian. It is said to have penetrated the frontier and to be advancing. The defending army is known as the Reds.

HIGH RAILROAD STATION.

To Be Opened in Ecuador 7,600 Feet Above Sea Level.

GUAYAQUIL, ECUADOR, Sept. 7.—The J. F. McDonald Construction Company, an American concern constructing the railroad from here to Quito, has invited the Ecuadorian authorities to attend the inauguration tomorrow of the railroad station at Alausi, 7,600 feet above the sea and 90 miles from Guayaquil.

The government has decreed that tomorrow will be observed as a fast day in honor of the opening of the Alausi station.

SMALLPOX RIOT.

Gave the British Such a Scare That They Dispatched a Warship to the Scene.

KINGSTON, JAMAICA, Sept. 7.—The steamer La Platta, which arrived here last night from West Indian ports, brings news of a riot at Bridgetown, Barbados, August 25.

There has been an epidemic of smallpox at Bridgetown, and on that day a crowd of 500 persons refused to permit the authorities to remove a smallpox patient for isolation. The police were attacked and stoned and several of them were injured.

The riot act was read to the crowd, and the police charged it. The people fell back, cowed, and numerous arrests were made on the charge of rioting.

The authorities at Bridgetown were so alarmed at the disorders that word was sent to the neighboring island of St. Vincent for a warship. The British cruiser Retribution immediately left Kingston for Bridgetown. All was quiet at Bridgetown when the La Platta left, but smallpox there continues to increase at an alarming rate.

HAPPY AMERICAN BOY.

Waved Old Glory at Coronation and King Edward Bowed and Smiled Upon Him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(Special.)—All the way from the coronation of King Edward VII., is journeying Stanley Churton, 12 years old, of Chicago, traveling the distance of more than 4,000 miles alone. The boy's heart beats high, for he is on his way home to tell his schoolfellows that the king bowed and smiled to an American boy.

Three months ago Master Stanley and his father, A. B. Churton, went to England, intending to see all they could of the scenes attending the coronation. When the ceremonies were postponed by the illness of the king, the elder Churton could not stay longer, on account of business matters at home, but the lad pleaded to be left behind so that he could witness the sight which he had come so far to see. His face beamed today when he told of his experience.

"You know—that is, I suppose you do—that King Edward likes Americans. So I had a nice seat at St. James palace and quite near to the street. When the king passed I waved an American flag, and he bowed and smiled and looked straight at me. Of course, he did lots of bowing and smiling, but I know he meant that one for me."

SMALLPOX RIOT.

Gave the British Such a Scare That They Dispatched a Warship to the Scene.

KINGSTON, JAMAICA, Sept. 7.—The steamer La Platta, which arrived here last night from West Indian ports, brings news of a riot at Bridgetown, Barbados, August 25.

There has been an epidemic of smallpox at Bridgetown, and on that day a crowd of 500 persons refused to permit the authorities to remove a smallpox patient for isolation. The police were attacked and stoned and several of them were injured.

The riot act was read to the crowd, and the police charged it. The people fell back, cowed, and numerous arrests were made on the charge of rioting.

The authorities at Bridgetown were so alarmed at the disorders that word was sent to the neighboring island of St. Vincent for a warship. The British cruiser Retribution immediately left Kingston for Bridgetown. All was quiet at Bridgetown when the La Platta left, but smallpox there continues to increase at an alarming rate.

testations of Capt. Nansen and the German consul.

The seizure of the Markomannia has been characterized as an act of piracy; but a dispatch from Berlin dated September 6, said German government circles did not take a tragic view of the seizure of the German vessel, but that satisfaction would be demanded.

The foreign office agrees with the view held by the foreign representatives at Port-au-Prince, said the dispatch, that the action of the Crete-a-Pierrot was piracy, but it was not then known whether satisfaction would be demanded from Gen. Firmin or whether the result of the revolution in Haiti would be awaited.

Both Boats Described.

The Crete-a-Pierrot was a steel, screw vessel of 950 tons displacement. She was armed with one 6.2-inch gun, one 4.7-inch, four 3.9-inch, two Maxim machine guns and four Nordenfeld machine guns.

The Crete-a-Pierrot was formerly in the service of the Haitien government, and Admiral Killick was commander of the Haitien fleet. On June 27 of this year Admiral Killick disembarked troops from the Crete-a-Pierrot to support Gen. Firmin, ex-Haitien minister at Paris, and one of the candidates for the presidency of the republic, and after refusing to recognize the constituted authorities, he threatened to bombard Cape Haitien.

The consular corps protested against such action being taken, but their efforts failed, for a few days later the admiral did bombard Cape Haitien, although little damage was done by the Crete-a-Pierrot's fire.

The Haitien government disavowed the action of Admiral Killick in bombarding Cape Haitien and ordered his arrest.

The Panther is a steel cruising vessel of 977 tons. The was built at Danzig in 1901 and is 206 feet long. She is armed with eight 3.4-inch quick-firing guns, six 1.4-inch and two machine guns.

Presumably by Kaiser's Orders.

The Panther left Germany July 29 for the Caribbean sea. Capt. Scheder, the newly appointed German commodore on the American station, had an audience with Emperor William to receive special instructions before starting for his post on the Panther.

The present revolution in Haiti started in April, and Gen. Tirsilas Simon Sam, president of the Haitien republic, resigned his office and left the island in May.

Admiral Killick recently declared Cape Haitien to be blockaded, but this blockade was admitted to be inefficient and was abandoned by the admiral after Commander McCrea had made certain representations to him concerning it.

The Crete-a-Pierrot stopped the German steamer Markomania, sent an armed force on board and took possession of the war munitions she carried, after Commander McCrea had told Admiral Killick that he had no right to visit or search any foreign vessel attempting to enter Cape Haitien, and after the admiral had admitted his blockade to be ineffectual.

There are three candidates for the presidency of Haiti. Calisthenes Fouchard, Saneque Monplaisir Pierre and M. Firmin. The Firminists have been active, and in some cases successful in their engagements with the forces of the provisional government under the command of Gen. Alexis Nord, minister of war under the provisional government.

M. Firmin is considered by many people to have the best chance of gaining the presidency. In 1889 he was minister of finance and foreign affairs in the cabinet of President

Six Freight Wrecks on the P. R. R. Result in Two Deaths; Sink Hole on New Trolley Line Roadbed Baffles Workmen

SIX WRECKS ON THE P. R. R.

Two Trainmen Killed and One Injured in Sunday Smashups.

MANY CARS DEMOLISHED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Sept. 7.—Six freight wrecks occurred today between Altoona and Johnstown and Altoona and Harrisburg. The first, which happened at 2:30 this morning, was caused by a runaway freight train crashing into another freight train at McGarveys station, three miles west of Altoona. Ten cars and the locomotive of the runaway train were derailed and broken. Fireman William G. Allison of Youngwood, Westmoreland county, broke his left arm jumping from the engine, but no one else was hurt.

At 8:30 this morning a freight train on the Cresson & Clearfield road parted near Frugality and the two sections came together again with great force, several cars being wrecked.

Brakeman J. E. Gutschall was taken from under the cars dead, and Brakeman G. E. Steele died on the way to the Altoona hospital. Both were young and unmarried, and resided in Altoona. Three other wrecks happened on the Altoona division and one on the Harrisburg division, but without casualties.

SEARCHING FOR PREACHER

West Virginia Citizens on Hunt for Aged Minister Who Killed His Wife.

GENOA, W. VA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—But little else has been discussed in this quiet little village today save the horrible tragedy in which the Rev. Morris Wilson yesterday morning ended his wife's life by drawing his razor across her throat. The aged minister has not yet been apprehended, notwithstanding almost hundreds of people have been on the search for him, most of whom are his friends, who realize that the deed must have been done during a fit of insanity.

The dense woodlands have been thoroughly searched as well as the rock cliffs in the vicinity of the town. Some advance the theory that the old minister may have thrown himself into the Twelve Pole river near his home, and that stream has been partly dragged.

Railway Secures Injunction.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, PA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—The Tyrone Electric Railway Company, owned largely by Philadelphia capitalists, secured an injunction yesterday to restrain Attorney G. L. Owens from interfering with the company's operations. Owens heads a minority faction of stockholders and it is alleged that he was hiring a party of men armed with rifles to gain control of the electric power plant. The court will hear the case tomorrow.

Seriously Wounded in Quarrel.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—In a saloon quarrel here last night Howard Bursey, a bartender, it is claimed, struck George Jett with a glass and inflicted a serious wound. Bursey left town and it is reported he was captured at Grafton today. Jett is an oil driller and contractor. It is said he cannot recover.

TO AID STRIKE OF THE ANTHRACITE MINERS

Steam Engineers in Annual Convention Likely to Call on Members for Funds.

The annual convention of the International Union of Steam Engineers will begin at 9 a. m. today. The sessions will be held in the Hotel Henry. The executive committee of the union has been in session at the hotel since Saturday morning, getting its recommendations for the convention in shape and going over the reports closing up the work of the past year.

The union has 164 locallunions in the United States, and of this number two, Nos. 66 and 95, in the Pittsburgh district, contain 7,000 members. At least 90 delegates will be present. The absentees are the delegates from the Pacific coast, Pittsburgh being rather too far east for them to attend.

Many of the unions' locals are already contributing to the support of the striking anthracite miners, and the board will propose a resolution calling on all the locals to come to the strikers' support. The convention will also be asked to take action refusing to accept the miners' strike fund in aid of the engineers' locals that have gone out on strike in the anthracite district. The engineers wish to support their own men, thereby leaving that much more money in the strike fund for the miners to draw on.

Among the other things to be brought up are the establishment of a fund for accident, sickness and death benefits; the advisability of urging the adoption of laws requiring men employed about boilers to take out a license.

The officers of the union are: President, George W. Lightheld of Chicago; first vice president, P. McMahon of New York; second vice president, J. McDonough of St. Louis; third vice president, D. W. Gilbert of Omaha, Neb., and secretary, R. A. McKee of Peoria, Ill.

NEGROES SHOOT WHITE MEN.

A Race Riot Results Fatally in a Delaware Town.

FELTON, DEL., Sept. 7.—This town was the scene of a bloody combat early today between whites and negroes. John and Evan Benson, colored, lead an attack upon some whites because of an alleged insult to the Bensons late last night. The Bensons waited outside of a hotel for Lemuel W. Wyatt and a crowd of white men. When they appeared the negroes opened fire on them.

Two bullets from John Benson's pistol took effect, one hitting Wyatt and the other Anthony Seward. The negroes then fled. John and Evan Benson were later arrested by a posse headed by Sheriff Reedy. Seward died two hours after being shot.

BURNED IN AN EXPLOSION.

Peculiar Accident Befel a Locomotive Engineer and Shook a Neighborhood.

By the explosion of a gas pipe in the Pennsylvania railroad yards near Twentieth street, this city, John Hamilton of Wilkinsburg, a locomotive engineer, was burned about the face. The report shook buildings in the vicinity, and for a few moments all sorts of rumors of loss of life and the destruction of property were current along Penn and Liberty avenues and adjacent streets.

Several passenger cars standing close to the explosion had many windows broken by the concussion, which was the extent of the damage. The gas pipe passed through a culvert under the tracks, and it is supposed it was leaking when a spark from Hamilton's engine, which was standing over the culvert at the time, ignited the gas.

The engineer was in the act of mounting his engine when the explosion occurred and received the fiery blast in the face.

THE PANDHANDLE POET WRITES INTERESTING VERSES

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 6.—One of the most unique characters in the employ of the Panhandle railroad is David Hanley of this city, who is known by its employes from Pittsburgh to Columbus and by thousands of others as the "Panhandle Poet." He is a native of Ireland and is practically uneducated, and yet his native wit, along with an acquired gift, has made him a writer of many poems on railroad and other homely subjects that are gems of the purest water. He has been in the employ of the Panhandle since June, 1883, and has been local car inspector for 20 years. He is chock full of humor and keeps well informed on everyday subjects. He writes his verses on scraps of paper during idle hours. Two of his poems that attracted wide attention were "The Steubenville Wreck Crew" and "Old Times on the Panhandle."

DAVID HANLEY, The "Panhandle Poet."

Three verses, much read, were indited to the man who stole the flag from the pole at the railroad office where the employes raised it during the Spanish war. His pen was evidently dipped in vitriol. They read as follows:

I have never heard, I've yet to learn,
If hell was raked from stem to stern,
That you could find a meaner wretch
Or one whose neck I'd sooner stretch,
Than he who came last night and stole
The stars and stripes from yonder pole.

Oh, cowardly, sordid, sneaking scamp,
Devoid of manhood, social tramp—
What evil breeze of fetid air
Blew you here from God knows where?
Without reason, purpose, gain or cause
Or pay, or bribe of poor applause.
Yo in cold and fiendish glee,
Cut down the banner of the free.

Infamous scoundrel, doubly dyed,
Degenerate viper, crawl and hide
On some secret, fetid spiral;
There let your putrid carcass rot
While starry banners flaunt and float
O'er this fair land and lands remote,
Until at last from shore to shore
Old Glory waves forever more.

TROLLEY LINE ROADBED SINKS

Apparently Bottomless Pit Baffles Workmen Near Monessen.

CONSTRUCTION IS DELAYED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MONESSEN, PA., Sept. 7.—Engineers of the Monongahela trolley road, which is to skirt the hillside down the river opposite Monessen, from Charleroi to Pittsburgh, are baffled in an attempt to make a solid roadbed at a point a short distance from trestle No. 3. A sink hole has been encountered which has swallowed up all the rock and earth that has been blasted by the men now working.

For two months Drake & Stratton have been dumping the refuse into this hole and over 15,000 cubic yards of earth and stone have been dumped into it. The hole is about 40 feet long and 10 feet wide and has not yet been filled level. It remains about 10 or 15 feet deep, all the while.

The men explain that about 100 feet down the rock "kicks out," not being strong enough to support the weight of filling. They say the only way the job can be completed is to wash all the material out that has been thrown in and commence filling at the bottom. It was expected to have the line in operation by the first of the year, but if this trouble continues the route will have to be changed or the opening delayed.

Burglars at Toronto, O.

TORONTO, O., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Burglars entered the residences of Joseph Price and A. P. Leonard last night. They secured nothing at Price's, but at Leonard's they got $30 and two gold watches. There is no clue.

POLICE HEARINGS WERE TAME YESTERDAY

There Was Very Little Out of the Ordinary to Be Disposed Of.

Magistrate D. J. McGarey had 32 cases to dispose of at the hearing at Central police station yesterday morning. Albert Long was held for court on a charge of larceny, made by "Squire" Henderson, a colored man, who says Long stole his pocketbook, containing $9, in a house on Wylie avenue. Charles Scott, a colored boy, was also held for court on a charge of entering a building with intent to commit a felony. He was found in a house in Bedford avenue early in the morning and could not explain his presence there.

William Harris, the colored man who escaped from Mercy hospital on Saturday, and was recaptured shortly after, was committed to jail to await trial for shooting Officer John Joyn, a month ago.

William Watson and H. J. Trainor were fined $25 and costs, which they paid. They are the two men whose arrest was ordered by Recorder J. O. Brown at Fifth avenue and Wood street, Saturday night, for trying to take an umbrella from three men. They tried to excuse their conduct on the plea of being drunk. It remains to be seen what will happen to the policeman who was not attending to his duty, and who, when ordered to make this arrest by Recorder Brown, impudently inquired, "Who the ——— are you?" He knows who he addressed in this manner now, but he does not know what will be his fate.

Minnie Ruff paid $50 and costs for keeping a disorderly house in Shore alley, and three visitors caught there paid $5 and costs.

Magistrate John H. Armstrong only had 11 prisoners before him at the East End and Oakland police stations yesterday, all drunks and disorderlies.

Twelve cases were heard by Magistrate J. V. McMasters at No. 3 police station. All were of a minor character.

Magistrate Samuel F. Kerr disposed of 13 cases, all drunks and disorderlies, at No. 5 police station hearings.

Among the 15 persons heard by Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen at the Allegheny Central station, was Robert Woodson, colored, of No. 520 Lemington street. He was accused of stealing oats from a freight car in the Pittsburgh & Western Railroad Company's yards, and was sent 60 days to the workhouse.

John Cooper, of No. 1841 Adams street, for abusing his wife and children and driving them into the street, was given 30 days in the workhouse.

An Outing in Michigan at $10 Round Trip.

Excursion tickets, Mackinac Island, will be sold Thursday, September 11th, from Pittsburgh and Allegheny, over Pennsylvania lines, via Cleveland and D. & C. steamer. Return limit 10 days, including date of sale. For through time and other particulars, call on or address District Passenger Agent J. E. Dillon, room 205 Park building, Pittsburgh.

RAILROAD OPTIONS FAIR GROUNDS

Pennsylvania May Acquire Valuable Property in Washington, Pa.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 7.—A lesson in modern progress and the passing of the country fair, which is not too acceptable to some of the "oldest inhabitants" is to be found in the strenuous competition which has been waged between the Pennsylvania and Wabash railroads for the old grounds of the Western Pennsylvania Agricultural association.

Because the exhibition did not any longer support itself the association recently sold the 42 acres for $80,000, the rate of over $1,900 per acre being the highest price ever paid for real estate of this class in Washington county. The purchasers were six of the directors of the association and it is stated on the best authority that the Pennsylvania has won the sharp contest with its rival for the property and has secured an option at $100,000. The information comes from an inside source, but is not official.

The Pennsylvania tracks run past the property which would be of excellent service as yards, while it would be equally advantageous to the Wabash, which by its recent survey in crossing over from Tylersdale, would also have an excellent opportunity to make use of the property.

The race track, which is the fastest in this end of the state, has been leased to J. J. Cobart of Waynesburg, who is to hold a race meet September 17, 18 and 19.

PENNSYLVANIA SAID TO HAVE BOUGHT IT

Control of Detroit Southern and Pere Marquette Secured Through Norfolk and Western.

The recent movement in the shares of the Detroit Southern railroad, during which the stock advanced about five points, and the sudden cessation of the rise in the stock, was believed to indicate that some financial interests had been buying for the control of the road and had succeeded in their efforts. It is now declared that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has secured the control of the Detroit Southern and the Pere Marquette railway. It is asserted that the Norfolk & Western has bought the Detroit Southern, and the former is controlled by the Pennsylvania through the Baltimore & Ohio.

John W. Gates recently asserted that the entire railway business of the United States would soon be under the control of four groups of railroads, each group distinct, yet all working in harmony. These four groups may be designated as the Hill combination in the northwest, the Gould properties in the southwest, with the Wabash to the seaboard, the Pennsylvania and the Vanderbilt interests in the east.

With the purchase of the Detroit Southern the Pennsylvania railroad has entered Wabash territory, and with the acquisition of the Pere Marquette railway, which operates through ownership and leases more than 1,000 miles of railway, it has acquired Ludington, a port on Lake Michigan, thus tapping the copper country of the Northern Michigan peninsula. The acquisition opens up a large territory as a feeder for the Norfolk & Western.

The capital stock of the Detroit Southern is a trifle more than $16,000,000, and the transactions in the stock during the last 20 days have aggregated $14,000,000. The road operates 350 miles of trackage.

FAIR NOT DAMAGED.

Things Will Be Merry as Ever at Coloseum.

Notwithstanding the heavy rain of Saturday night, the many booths and Irish village in the Allegheny colosseum, where the Irish fair will be held tonight and tomorrow night, were not damaged. Blarney castle's exterior suffered somewhat from the rain, but the interior is in good condition.

The attractions booked for Saturday night, which had to be postponed, will be given tonight. They include a balloon ascension, bicycle races, tug-of-war, hand ball playing, running broad and high jumps and numerous other athletic events.

The automobile and diamond, which were to be awarded the holder of the lucky numbers, will be given away tomorrow night. Just before the fair is brought to a close duplicates of each ticket sold since the fair has been in progress will be placed in a box and the number drawn will entitle the holder to a $1,000 automobile for 25 cents. The Rev. Father E. J. McCabe, pastor of the Church of Annunciation, will appoint the committee to make the drawing just before it takes place.

Each Tuesday During September.

The Pennsylvania railroad will sell each Tuesday during September, 15-day excursion tickets, Pittsburgh to Niagara Falls and return, at rate of $7.45; and to Toronto and return, at rate of $8.45.

Trains leave Union station at 9 a. m. and 10:45 p. m., eastern standard time. Pullman service on both trains.

Ex-Senator Roach Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—William Nathaniel Roach, aged 62, who was United States senator from North Dakota from 1893 to 1899, died here today. He had been ill from cancer almost from his coming to this city, where he had made his home after retiring from the senate. He served as a clerk in the United States quartermaster's department during the civil war.

FATALLY STABBED AT DANCE IN OHIO

Pottery Worker is Dying and Posse is Searching for Assailant.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 7.—Albert Thompson, 27 years of age, a pottery worker of this city, was fatally stabbed at a dance near Grim's bridge, north of town, last night. Albert McIntosh, also a pottery worker of Calcutta is alleged to have struck Thompson over the heart with a dirk knife. Sheriff Leonard and a posse are scouring the country for the assailant.

A free-for-all fight took place at the dance, caused, it is said, by an insulting remark made to one of the young ladies present, and revolvers and other weapons were freely used. Thompson attempted to interfere in behalf of a friend, Frank Crawford of Wellsville, whose life was endangered.

Thompson is in a dying condition at the house of his uncle, T. F. Blazier, near Calcutta.

College President Resigns.

GREENVILLE, PA., Sept. 7.—It has leaked out here that Dr. Theodore B. Roth has resigned as president of Thiel college at a recent meeting of the board. The report is confirmed by several members of the board. J. C. Kuntzman, field superintendent of the church extension movement and general council for the Lutheran church, has been chosen to succeed Dr. Roth. The reasons for Dr. Roth's resignation have not been made public.

DANGEROUS FIRE IN RANKIN YESTERDAY

Loss of Over $10,000 and Two Families Made Homeless—Exploding Cartridges Made Excitement.

An explosion in Rankin about 4 o'clock last evening caused a fire that did damage amounting to about $10,000. The explosion, which was a terrific one, took place in the hardware store of D. M. Kier, at Kennawa and Braddock avenues, and is supposed to have been caused by natural gas. The volunteer fire department responded to the alarm promptly, but fearing a big conflagration, the surrounding buildings being of wood and standing close together, asked and obtained assistance from the Braddock department.

The property destroyed was a double-two-story frame structure owned by R. M. McAnulty. The loss on it is about $2,500, partly insured. Kier's stock is almost a total loss. He estimates his loss at $5,000, on which he has $3,500 insurance. The other store room was occupied by M. H. Fizer, gent's furnishings, whose loss is about $1,500, partly insured. One of the apartments over the store rooms was occupied by Philip O'Rourke, whose loss on household furniture is about $300. The other apartment was occupied by the family of Frank Griffith, whose loss on household furnishings is put at $500, not including two diamond rings and two watches, valued at $300, which were forgotten until it was too late to save them.

The fire spread from the hardware store to the room and dwelling of James Horton, and then to the livery stable of Max Mervis, both of which buildings were gutted. McAnulty also owned the Mervis building. Horton owned his own store. Horton's and Mervis' losses could not be definitely learned last night.

Kier was in his store about 3 o'clock and lighted the gas. He smelled gas Saturday and yesterday but could not locate it and did not suspect it was strong enough to cause an explosion. The entire front was blown out of his building.

Considerable excitement was occasioned during the progress of the fire by the explosion of cartridges contained in the hardware stock of Kier.

DR. M'CLELLAND HURT.

His Driver Attempted to Cross Car Track.

Dr. Robert W. McClelland of Fifth and Wilkins avenues was badly cut and bruised by being thrown out of his buggy at the corner of Fifth and Elysian avenues during a collision with a Hamilton avenue car at 8 o'clock last night. Stanyslaus Selirki, Dr. McClelland's driver, was also painfully injured during the collision.

Dr. McClelland had been out driving on Beechwood boulevard and was on his way home when the wreck occurred. The driver attempted to cross the track to get away from a car coming in the opposite direction, when the rig was struck. Dr. McClelland and the driver were thrown out and the buggy badly wrecked. The driver escaped with severe bruises about the body.

Dr. McClelland received a bad scalp wound in the back of his head and his face was lacerated. Both men were taken to the residence of James R. McClintock nearby, where Dr. P. P. Herman attended them and dressed their wounds. They were afterward removed to their homes.

I had such a distressed feeling in my stomach and my head would ache every day regular. I had no appetite and when I did eat it lay heavy on my stomach. I got downhearted and almost every week I had to go home once or twice from work. A friend advised me to try Ripans Tabules. I bought a package and started to take one whenever I felt bad or had the headache and after each meal for two months, and I can honestly say that I am thoroughly cured.

Some Filtration Ideas.

James J. Brennan, formerly engineer at Brilliant pumping station, and later smoke inspector, makes a contribution to the literature of filtration and water supply, in an interview printed on another page of this paper. At least some of his ideas are worth considering. His estimate of the cost of carrying out the plans for sand filtration is staggering, and, if borne out by the builders' investigation proposed by councils, will put an end to that project for some time to come. He also raises the question of level at an opportune time.

Mr. Brennan's other idea about the purchase of an island and natural filtration is not new, but is an interesting elaboration of an old one, adding a plan for aeration and the action of sunlight. This plan would probably be somewhat less expensive than the filtration plant proposed under the bond issue, and would give a larger supply of filtered water.

It is not meant by this discussion to indorse Mr. Brennan's views, but to invite attention and consideration of every phase of the subject. Many citizens are not satisfied that the proposed sand filter will provide a permanent remedy for the evil of impure water from which the city suffers. Many believe if that project is carried out it will cost more than it is worth. A good many favor mechanical or electrical purification, and in a matter which so vitally concerns every citizen, one has as good a right to advance an opinion as another. All ought to have the desire for the fullest knowledge possible, though a few filtrationists are prone to deny that any but themselves can know anything about it.

Germany Takes a Hand.

There is a possibility of serious international complications over the sinking of the Firminist gunboat, Creto-a-Pierrot, by the German gunboat Panther. True, the crew of the Haitien boat fired it before leaving, and the German fired on a deserted ship, but the whole proceeding looks like high-handed interference on the part of the Germans. Explanations may put a different aspect upon the matter, and it is just possible the incident may have a salutary effect upon the turbulent islanders. Until such explanations are given, judgment will be reserved.

Martinique's Peril.

A cable from Paris denies the rumor that owing to the continued activity of Mont Pelee the French government would undertake the removal of the people from Martinique. France declares the subject has not even been discussed. This leaves the question of Martinique's peril one of vital moment. It will hardly relieve the situation much to be told that France proposes to send out another scientific mission under the direction of Prof. Lacroix, who will establish an observation station on Mont Pelee. It will be remembered Prof. Lacroix was in Martinique from June 22 to July 31 last for the purpose of making a thorough study of the volcano, and, if possible, to offer advice as to its future activity. The results of his investigation were not definite and were not serviceable as a means of warning against the eruption of August 30.

As a matter of fact, science has never been able to predict, with any certainty, the end of any seismic disturbance. The American scientists who went to Martinique deemed the ultimate destruction of the north half of the island probable. Prof. Hellprin's abrupt departure from Fort de France after the very recent eruptions indicates a fear on his part that danger exists in all parts of the island, either from the eruptive forces or from tidal waves. But the evacuation of the island is not easy even were it definitely known the island would be destroyed. French cruisers have taken away many people, but thousands remain with the choice of facing the danger where they are or the possibility of starvation somewhere else.

Congressional Repentance.

Representative Eddy of Minnesota, who was an ardent beet sugar anti-reciprocity man at the last session of congress, is now quoted as saying that "the sentiment against reciprocity concessions to Cuba has died out in all the beet sugar states except California," and that the administration will triumph at the next session of congress. We do not doubt that the administration will triumph, but we are surprised that Representative Eddy should attempt to keep up the fiction that there had been an anti-reciprocity sentiment based on considerations for beet sugar in any of the states whose representatives and senators opposed the administration's reciprocity. There was no state so dominated by beet sugar that it can be referred to as "a beet sugar state," and whatever sentiment there may have been at Washington was almost wholly made by the sound and fury of the lobby. When the session of congress adjourned and members and senators got home, they speedily discovered that the so-called beet sugar sentiment had no popular existence, and the subsequent expressions of Republican state conventions made broad advertisement of the fact. Statesmen who placed themselves on the anti-reciprocity side were out of touch with public sentiment and were not permitted to foist their views on party gatherings. Instead they were rapped so sharply that Mr. Eddy says "the backbone of the opposition is broken." We hope it is true the lesson has been learned so well that the senate will do its duty on reassembling for the short session. The beet sugar congressmen and senators blundered, and it is well if they have repented, whether they call it by that name or some other.

Don't Worry.

We find this in the Bradford Record, which has been in a constant state of worry since it first appeared on the scene, twelve years ago:

> The fact that the Vermont Republicans could not elect a governor has no doubt caused Quay an additional wondering as to what the outcome in Pennsylvania may be when November rolls around.

We don't think the Vermont election has made Senator Quay wonder. If it has done so the Record has a scoop. There were two Republican candidates for governor in Vermont, one regular, the other the nominee of a mass convention. Each had more than twice as many votes as the Democratic candidate. Therefore, why worry? Why should Vermont cause Quay to wonder about Pennsylvania? Why should it cause anyone to wonder? Vermont is all right. So is Pennsylvania. Vermont will have a Republican governor. So will Pennsylvania. Why does the Record worry about things it is ignorant of?

Col. Watterson's Wrath.

It would seem the anger of Col. Henry Watterson has no limit. Beginning a crusade against his political enemies, he has by leaps and bounds reach an altitude of indignation that includes in its furious sweep well-nigh everybody in the United States—outside of Kentucky. The colonel's latest attack is upon what he designates as the "smart set," meaning the wealthy habitues of Newport and the ease-loving members of New York's "400." His characterization of these latest objects of his wrath are quite enough to bring a blush to the cheeks of the Goddess of Liberty, whose chaperon, it will be remembered, the colonel once declared himself to be.

Seriously, however, the denunciations of the rich who allow their wealth to be used in senseless display, or who, in isolated cases, overstep the bounds of propriety, is a silly and narrow practice. Virtue is not an exclusive possession of the poor, and all the wrong-doing in the United States is not at Newport or even in New York. There are bad people and indiscreet in all ranks of society and in all conditions of material wealth. It is easy enough to denounce vice that is a long way off, and when the victim of pious denunciations happens to be wealthy or prominent the tale is pretty sure of having a sympathetic hearing. Of course, the rich and prominent people have an added weight of responsibility as exempiars of right living, but vice is just as bad in one class as another. The right thing for Col. Watterson and every other reformer to do is to help make the bad people that are within their reach better. To hurl stones at vice that is a long way off is quite easy, but it is also a profitless occupation.

The Incorrigible Pessimist.

Once get an idea in the heads of some people and it is there to stay, no matter how thoroughly it may be contradicted by changing circumstances. There seemed to be good ground a little while ago to deplore the growing tendency to degrade and commercialize the drama in this country. The subject is one that interests millions of people to whom the theater has become a popular source of amusement and entertainment, and, as might naturally be expected, there was a great hue and cry raised about the degenerate stage. In the crusade against certain theatrical methods said to be responsible for this condition saner critics gave due heed to the fact that fickle public fancy in isolated cases could hardly be taken as an indication of widespread decay in the theatrical tastes of the American people. But the crusade developed stage censors who got it into their heads that the drama in America was going to the bad, and they will not believe anything else, no matter what new conditions may arise. Here is the St. Louis Republic, for instance, with this glowing comment:

> Now that the Maeterlinck play, "Monna Vanna," has been placed on the blacklist by London's dramatic censor, thereby causing a newspaper discussion which has thoroughly advertised the features because of which the production of the play at a London theater was forbidden, we shall doubtless have "Monna Vanna" produced on this side with the least possible delay.
> There are, of course, thousands of foul-minded persons in every country who prefer this sort of thing. It is to the foul-minded playgoer that the most frequent appeal is made.

In the face of this doleful wail it is officially announced that we are to have at least six notable Shakesperian revivals this season, besides an equal number of new plays by eminent actors and actresses which may justly be called classic in spirit and theme. But the pessimist with a pet prejudice is not going to be convinced, though the record be all against him.

Pattison Should Be Defeated.

A circular letter by John W. Frazier of Philadelphia presents some of the reasons why Robert E. Pattison should be defeated. He was elected in 1882 and two years later Cleveland was elected president, but was held in restraint by an adverse majority in one branch of congress. In 1890 Pattison was elected again and two years later Cleveland was elected president for the second time, with a Democratic majority in congress. Then came the Wilson bill and the issue of $262,315,000 of bonds in a time of profound peace.

This year the debt statement for the month of June showed an available cash balance of $208,547,115, exclusive of the reserve fund of $150,000,000. Mr. Frazier pertinently asks whether these are not some of the "reasons why the Democratic convention at Erie resolved to waive all consideration of national politics."

Undoubtedly the record of the last Democratic national administration is as much feared by the Pennsylvania Democracy as the later financial policies of Bryan. But if Pattison should be elected, as he was before, on the "state issues" platform, the same influence as formerly would be exerted in the national contest. There is good reason in all this history for the defeat of Pattison. Yet there are other reasons. One of these is that Judge Pennypacker represents the highest standard of personal integrity, ability and executive character. There is no need to look to Pattison for better administration, or to risk a repetition of history.

Solace for Winter Nights.

There are cheering reports from the rural districts concerning the nut crop, and there is assurance of a bountiful supply unless the weather suddenly becomes so cold as to stop maturity. This year's fruit crops, such as apples, peaches and pears, have been moderately good, and now it seems certain the nut crop will at least be up to the average.

With such a prospect old and young can look forward contentedly to the coming winter, for the long, cold evenings become cheerful when there are apples to eat and nuts to crack before a glowing fire. Beginning with Hallowe'en, and continued until the end of winter, the nut occupies a prominent place in home life, and the assurance of a big crop is good news to all members of the household.

Those people who fondly imagine that stage life is one long dream of wine, suppers and gay holiday will receive somewhat of a shock in the news of the physical breakdown of Miss Maude Adams. The work of this charming actress looked easy from in front of the footlights, but it has wrecked her physical and nervous constitution.

It will be a source of keen regret to the friends of that able leader and man of affairs to hear that Senator Joseph R. Hawley of Connecticut is in failing health. Senator Hawley is one of the Nestors in American public life and his loss would be in the nature of a national bereavement.

A theatrical firm in Baltimore has announced its purpose of reducing by half its usual bill board and window sign advertising account and devoting the amount thus saved to newspaper advertising. Wisdom usually comes with experience to the man who is willing to learn.

That alleged interview with the president in Philadelphia has been declared by him to be an outrageous fake. Suspicion of this was pretty general when its origin was announced.

If the president's facial expression was correctly set forth in the pictures of a morning contemporary yesterday his accident has disfigured him more than had been supposed.

Philadelphia has a colored woman who is said to be 132 years old. Of course, allowance must be made for the fact that she has spent most of her life in that city.

A settlement of the Japanese contention as to the ownership of Marcus island will have the effect of wiping that spot of ground off the map again.

Germany is much opposed to the kaiser coming over to our world's fair in 1904. We didn't know St. Louis was unpopular so far from home.

France wants to know what the Monroe doctrine is. Let her get gay with South American territory and she will find out.

Marcus Island has butted onto the map and into the war situation at one and the same time.

The people of Posen are trying to worry along without an encore of that imperial visit.

Doubtless the automobile will feel quite envious of the trolley car hereafter.

The straw hat is beginning to look a little ashamed of its owner.

Boston may safely emerge now. The trouble is over.

An Armour Trait.

From the New York Times.

"Diamond Joe" Reynolds relates this story of the late Philip Armour of Chicago, who, in answer to an inquiry if he was not often troubled by those in need of assistance, answered:

"Every day. I have one impecunious near relative who is forever importuning me for help. Finally I shut down on him. A few days ago when he came to this office I refused to see him. He went home and pestered me with letters. Finally I told my financial man to write to him that if he would agree not to worry me for two years I would let him have $500. He wrote back, 'Make it five years and $1,000.'

"That was so like an Armour," said Mr. Armour, with a chuckle, "that I let him have it. Well, in about two weeks I got a letter from his wife saying that, as she had not been a party to the contract, she hoped I would make the same arrangement with her."

POLICE SHAKE-UPS AIMED AT DEVERY

Officers Too Friendly to Him Shifted to the Hated Suburban Districts.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Sept. 7.

Last week saw one of the greatest revolutions in police affairs that has taken place in New York for years. Transfers are common enough, but it is seldom that so many captains have been hustled from one percinct to another, just to show that men suspected of friendship for a high official can be punished. Half a dozen police captains were last week shifted from downtown precincts to others in the suburbs, "for the good of the service." It is an open secret that they would not have been moved in this way were it not desired to give "Big Bill" Devery due notice that men who assisted him in his conduct of police affairs are not regarded favorably by the present police commissioner. There are few things that disgruntle a New York police captain so much as being sent to the Bronx or the far districts of Brooklyn, where there is "nothing doing" in the way of perquisites, and the captain simply vegetates. Commissioner Partridge seems to have become tired of the perpetual complaints about the conduct of the department, and he is shaking up things in a way that evidently means business. Devery does not say anything about the retiring of his favorite captains to distant points, at least not for publication; but his enemies rejoice over the matter as a premonition of his failure at the primaries. There may not be any connection between the transferring of police captains and the Tammany political situation, but the general impression is that Devery is the person at whom the guns of punishment in Mulberry street are pointed. Meanwhile he is issuing pronunciamentoes from the "pump," and declares that he will win his fight as leader in the Ninth district if the whole police force changes places within the next week or two.

A Risky Swindler.

Of all the peculiar tricks for getting money dishonestly which have come to light in this city, that of a man named Doran, who has been systematically allowing himself to be run down by trolley cars in Philadelphia, is the most spectacular. He was arrested in New York, but probably will be put on trial in Philadelphia. There is danger enough from electric cars at all times, even when one does not expect it, but that a man should deliberately take the risk of being killed by a car for the sake of collecting $50 or $60 damages, is almost unbelievable This man Doran admits that he did it, however, and seems to be rather proud of his ingenuity.

Gotham as a Vacation Place.

Among well-known Pittsburghers who are to be met in the theaters and in Fifth avenue just now, is John Goetmann, the restauranteur, who is spending a week or two in this city with his family. Like so many other Pittsburghers, he is winding up his Atlantic City sojourn with a short stay in the metropolis. And New York is at its best just now, with sunny days and cool evenings.

New Departure in Athletics.

Among changes that have occurred in New York clubs of late, one of the most sensational was announced yesterday. The Knickerbocker athletic, as the successor of the famous Manhattan Athletic club, whose membership included champion performers in many pastimes, will practically cease to exist in its old-time shape on Monday evening. It has been decided to throw open the $700,000 home of the club at Forty-fifth street and Madison avenue to the general public on Tuesday morning, and the 1,800 members of the club will have little more privileges in the premises than any stranger who is disposed to enjoy the use of the best appliances for the development of muscle that money and science have been able to devise. This decision, which marks the beginning of a new use for the great building, is said to be but one more step in the plan of conducting a proprietary club scheme, such as J. Herbert Ballantine contemplated when he assumed control of the big building and all its appurtenances, including the well-equipped track of the club at Bergen point, some time ago.

In Behalf of Striking Miners.

It is announced that a public indignation meeting is to be held in Madison Square garden next Saturday evening under the auspices of the "Miners' Defense Fund Committee," recently appointed by the Central Federated union of New York. Prominent labor leaders will address the meeting, including John Mitchell of the Mine Workers and Martin Dolphin, former president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, besides a number of business and professional men. The object of the gathering is to protest against the methods employed by the coal operators in the massing of troops at the scene of the strike.

Manhattan "L" Fatalities.

More accidents have taken place on the electric railway of Manhattan in the last few months than in any other similar period. The electric apparatus on the East Side, where the trains have been running by electricity for some weeks, has caused several disasters, mainly because everything is new and works with the stiffness inseparable from that condition. On the West Side, where the system is in process of installation, there have been casualties such as one expects when a big work is in progress on a railroad, whether elevated or otherwise. One day this week a man was killed before the eyes of two trainloads of passengers, and several other workmen have been thrown from the tracks to the roadway below, or have suffered injuries in other ways. The tracks are narrow and the space between two trains passing each other is so small that men working on the tracks have to exercise the greatest of care. The percentage of deaths and injuries has not been larger than that of any similar work, but, being in the heart of the city, and right before the eyes of the public, as it were, the fatalities on the Manhattan "L" have seemed worse than they really are, taking the law of averages in such matters. It is expected that steam will be banished entirely from the system long before the Christmas holidays.

Archbishop's Strenuous Boyhood.

Mrs. J. P. Mitchell, sister of the new archbishop of New York, Mgr. Farley, in an interview yesterday threw some amusing light upon the early life of the personage who is now the principal Roman Catholic dignitary of New York. She said: "We came from County Monaghan and of good old Irish stock, and save for my brother's seriousness in all matters, he was not unlike other boys. Fond of athletics, he was always outdoors playing handball, wrestling and indulging in all sports, and in all, I must say, he excelled. Even in playing marbles, he would come home with his pockets full. I remember when he was about 15 years old he came home with his clothing torn and bespattered with blood and his nose bleeding. He had been playing marbles and had won, as usual. The other boy was angry over his losses and John's good nature, and when John was about to shoot his marble the other lad said: 'Knuckle down, now,' and at the same moment put his hand in his pocket. My brother said it was a mean trick, and the lad knocked off John's cap and a fist fight resulted. Each boy was cheered, and for fully 10 minutes it was anyone's fight, when a punch in the stomach made the other lad quit. St. John said he then emptied his pockets of marbles, saying, 'These made you fight; probably they will heal your wounds,' and ran home."

New Pittsburgh Theater Project.

It was said along upper Broadway yesterday that the new independent theatrical agency is looking for a theater in Pittsburgh. The understanding is that the company will build a new house and not try to get any of the theaters now in existence in Pittsburgh. Harrison Grey Fiske, Maurice Campbell and James K. Hackett have been the prime movers in the new agency, their object being to conduct their business without dealing with what is known as the "theatrical syndicate," of which Klaw & Erlanger and Nixon & Zimmerman are the principal managers, but which includes the Frohmans, Haymans and other managers that stand high in the profession, on account of the number of their attractions and the large amount of money that is invested in their enterprises.

Gotham Goes Back to Church.

The churches in New York city were better attended today than they have been since last winter. The coming home of thousands of summer vacationers is responsible for the increased attendance at the churches, and there seemed to be more than the usual earnestness in the services on the part of the pastors as well as the congregations. All came back from the mountains, seashore and Europe improved in health and spirits, and the services at many of the churches today were something in the nature of a reunion. The usual number of out-of-town people went to the churches famed all over the country, and altogether the strictest Sabbatarian hardly could criticise the way in which the day was spent by the majority of people in New York.

Lottie Collins Contesting a Will.

Lottie Collins, the original "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" girl, has instructed Abe Hummel, in this city, to contest the probate of the will of her husband, Stephen Cooney, the theatrical manager, who died in Saratoga. Mr. Cooney's will, which has been filed for probate in this city, was executed on September 24, 1901, and makes no mention of his famous dancer-wife. It directs that after his funeral expenses and just debts shall have been paid, his estate, including $5,000 life insurance, shall be given to Mary A. Roskopf, his sister, in trust for the benefit of his daughter, Helen Cleopatria Cooney. In case of the child's death before she reaches her majority, the estate is to go to his next of kin. Lottie Collins is in London.

Rooster Beats Trolley Car.

A gamecock over in Jersey City yesterday delighted some hundreds of natives by racing with a trolley car and beating it. When the race started the rooster was 10 feet ahead on the track. For half a block the gamecock maintained his advantage. Then he began to weaken, but he wouldn't show the white feather. He remained between the tracks, and at the end of the block was under the car. The motorman turned toward a passenger and said: "There is chicken potpie for somebody." He was a false prophet, however, for the words were hardly uttered when the rooster was on his feet crowing defiantly as if asking for another race. Roosters do those things in Jersey.

New Jersey's Leech Industry.

"Hirudo Day" is an anniversary in New Jersey that is never heard of elsewhere. It is the day on which the men who gather leeches for medical use go to town to collect their pay, leaving it till this particular day. Leech-buying is not the work for a novice. The question of price is not at all involved in the game, as the leech catchers have the only trust permitted on New Jersey soil, and they fix the price per dozen at which they will sell. Their prices range from $1.80 to $3.80 per dozen this year, according to the age of the leech. A leech under the age of 18 months is not a medicinal leech. His suctorial proboscis is not fully developed until he passes 17 months, although he acquires a full set of semi-circular teeth in his jaws at the age of one year.

Woman Violinist for Three Orchestras.

Maud McCarthy, an Irish violinist, who recently arrived in this city from Europe, whose debut is to be made with the Boston Symphony orchestra in Boston on November 17, has been engaged by Mr. Gerike to play in eight concerts with this organization. She has also been engaged by the Thomas orchestra of Chicago, and with Victor Herbert's Pittsburgh Symphony society.

Restoration of Pneumatic Tube.

New York is again to have its mail pneumatic tube service which ran between the general postoffice downtown and uptown station, and also communicated with the Brooklyn postoffice, which was put out of service because there was no appropriation to cover the expense. The postoffice department in Washington officially decided this yesterday. It is hoped that the handling of mail will be greatly facilitated. The disuse of the tube has caused much grumbling of late.

DESERVED REBUKE TO DUKE BORIS

Mrs. Roosevelt's Avoidance of Royal Visitor Highly Commended.

By THE MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Mrs. Roosevelt's action in declining to meet Grand Duke Boris of Russia, and leaving her husband to entertain him alone at Oyster Bay on Thursday last, will commend itself to sensible people both at home and abroad. It is a course which has been adopted in the past in many capitals in Europe in order to denote disapproval on the part of the highest in the land, of the behavior of some royal or imperial visitor.

With the exception of the late king of the Sandwich islands every prince of the blood who has visited the United States has borne himself with a certain amount of dignity and has manifested a regard for the prejudices, for the conventionalities and for the views of the people whose hospitality he was enjoying.

This has not been the case with Grand Duke Boris, and while some of the stories which have been printed about him may be somewhat exaggerated, there is no doubt that from the time of his arrival at San Francisco until the moment when he called upon the president of the United States at Oyster Bay, he behaved in a manner that implied a complete absence of any respect for the American people or their opinion concerning him.

His indiscretions of one kind and another, while open to criticism at any time, became trebly reprehensible in view of the fact that he was traveling as a Russian grand duke, and as such in the fiercest glare of publicity, and his action while at a New York theater in ignoring the governor of the state of New York, who was in a neighboring box, in order to devote himself to ladies of the chorus, was merely one example of the utter "sans facon" with which he has behaved throughout his stay in this country, just as if there were no necessity in his eyes for observing any of the conventionalities of life here in America where "nothing mattered."

A Deserved Rebuke.

That Mrs. Roosevelt's absence from the luncheon given by the president for the grand duke was a rebuke and a well-merited one, cannot be denied, and in spite of all that is said to the contrary, she left before he arrived, and only returned after his departure, thus indicating both that she did not wish to meet him and that the president was not anxious for her to receive the grand duke. It is a rebuke such as the one which King Edward when prince of Wales subjected King Milan when the latter was in London, by receiving his call, but giving him no opportunity of meeting the princess.

The Grand Duke Boris' uncle, the late czar, was far more drastic, for when the duke of Orleans came to St. Petersburg in the train of a famous prima-donna, with whom he was associated at the time, and rendered himself conspicuous by his devotion to her, he was not only ignored by the court and imperial family, but ordered to leave the opera house one night when the late czar and the czarina were present, and commanded by the police to leave the country on the following day.

While this, of course, was an extreme measure which created a great sensation at the time, and has no parallel save the case when the king of Siam insisted upon the late duke of Sutherland leaving Bangkok on account of his moral short-comings, it is a very usual practice for European courts to ignore altogether foreign visitors of royal and imperial rank, whose behavior is such as to indicate they have more regard for their own ideas of amusement than for the good opinion of the people of the country in which they happen to be, and the Grand Duke Boris may consider himself lucky in having received any recognition whatsoever on the part of President Roosevelt.

Famous Sturat Manuscripts.

King Edward is rendering an immense service to historical students throughout the world by beginning to issue through the royal printers, and under the auspices of the royal historical manuscript commission, that wonderful collection of papers known as the "Stuart manuscripts," which after the most extraordinary series of adventures eventually found their way to Windsor castle toward the close of the reign of George IV., where they have lain ever since untouched by any librarian or antiquarian until King Edward ascended the throne.

The history of these some 70,000 manuscripts is itself a romance. The Stuarts were ready penmen, King James II., who lost three crowns by an inherited inability to do the right thing, was a controversalist, who, on paper, was fully qualified to win them back. From his pen flowed memoirs of his life and of that of his brother, King Charles II., and as he preserved the voluminous correspondence of his relatives and partisans, likewise all the papers of his father, the ill-fated King Charles I., of his grandfather, King James, and of his unfortunate great-grandmother, Mary Queen of Scots, the collection became a very extensive one. It was added to by the old pretender and the young pretender, and while some of them were burned at the time of the great French revolution, the remainder were divided eventually between the young pretender's brother, Henry, Cardinal of York, who died in 1807 at Rome, and his (the young pretender's) illegitimate daughter by Miss Walkinshaw.

Adventures of the Papers.

This daughter, who was created by her father countess of Albany, and who survived him but a few years, left her share of the papers to the Abby Waters, an Irish priest, who was prior of the Benedictine monastery at Rome. Father Waters offered them to the prince regent, who gladly accepted the gift, giving the priest a pension by way of recognition thereof. But Rome was at the time in the hands of the French, with whom the English were then at war, and it was a matter of considerable difficulty to get the papers to England. The English consul at Civita Vecchia had them when he was arrested by the French authorities. But he had concealed them so successfully in his garden that for four years they lay undiscovered. They were then, at great risk, smuggled to Leghorn, and thence in a Tunisian felucca to Tunis, thence to Malta and so to England, reaching the prince regent about 1812.

The other portion of the papers in the hands of Cardinal Prince Henry of York, at his death, passed into possession of his executor, Cardinal Cesarini, and at his death, a year later, to his executor, Mgr. Tassoni. Neither of these prelates had any idea of their value, and they lay in a garret of an Italian palace exposed to rats and damp and suffering grievously.

In 1816 an eccentric Englishman, Dr. Robert Watson, a Jacobite, who had been appointed by Napoleon, principal of the Scots college at Paris, purchased them for a mere song—there were three big cartloads of them, from Mgr. Tassoni's secretary, with the idea of presenting them to the prince regent and earning both a pardon and a pension. Cardinal Consalvi, papal secretary of state, heard of it, and desiring to be himself the man to win the affections of the prince regent, sent the papal soldiery to seize the documents, and then dispatched the whole lot of them to England to the prince regent with his compliments. Watson, bitterly disappointed, eventually committed suicide.

Mutual Disappointment.

From the Washington Star.

Santos Dumont has told some of his friends at home that he was disappointed in this country. It is no violation of confidence to intimate that the sentiment was to some extent mutual.

The doctors are discussing what they term the "Arkansas chill." Is this the malady which attacked Senator James K. Jones?

A GREAT EDITION

The continued progress of The Sunday Gazette was never more clearly evidenced than in yesterday's edition. When placed beside any of its contemporaries, the superiority was plain to the most untitiated reader. Each one of the seven sections was full of bright, readable matter, and the news features were most ably handled.

As to illustration, it was as perfect as a newspaper can well be. Particular praise was heard everywhere, for the excellent story on the visit of President Roosevelt to Wheeling, and the clearness of the pictures which illustrated it. The other news features of the day were covered in every necessary detail, and the local happenings were chronicled more completely than in any other Pittsburgh newspaper.

The magazine and comic sections were up to the high standard they have established for Pittsburgh in the past. The exposition section contained an accurate and beautifully illustrated account of the growth and success of Pittsburgh's popular annual fair.

The departments that go to make the great modern Sunday newspaper were all well taken care of. The theatrical news and gossip, women's pages and society, sports and literature were written by experts, and their success was unqualified. The latest gossip from the seaside and mountain resorts where thousands of The Gazette's readers are still domiciled, filled a page in the second section with bright readable personal notes.

A feature of the edition was the beautiful song souvenir. Usually, the class of music that is given with Sunday newspapers is not of the highest, but this is not the case with "The Summer Days," written by Leola Raymond, with music by George C. Raymond. It is a beautiful little lyric, and will be one of those songs seen on the rack, where the musician keeps his favorite airs.

It is hard to tell of the news. There was too much of it. It showed careful selection and editing. The whole population of the Shenango valley was interested in the special New Castle page, which told of the growth and industrial development of that hustling little city. The cable service of The Gazette is unrivalled in Pittsburgh, and as a result the bright bits of gossip from European centers interested everybody.

The financial pages contained the same class of absolutely accurate information that has made The Gazette the constant companion of business men, not only in Pittsburgh, but in the whole of three states.

Special writers of known fame filled many columns with articles that could be found in no other parer in the city, and helped to make the edition one of the best as well as biggest Sunday newspapers in the country. The battlecry of progress, "Watch the Old Lady Grow Young," was fully justified in yesterday's edition, but that is only an indication of what is yet to come.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Martin Freudenretch.

Martin Freudenretch, Sr., aged 66, one of the oldest and best-known residents of Etna, Pa., died yesterday at 7:40 a. m. at his residence on Butler street, Etna. Mr. Freudenretch came to Etna about 50 years ago and was first employed as a cooper in the Standard Oil Company's refinery at Sharpsburg. Later he married a daughter of Jacob Farmerie, one of the first settlers and largest property owners of Etna. After his marriage he established a hotel or inn known as the "Run House," on the Farmerie property near the Butler plank road. This hotel, which was one of the oldest and best-known houses along the Butler road, was managed by Mr. Freudenretch until about 15 years ago, since which time he has not been in active business, although the old stone house is still one of the landmarks along the plank road. Mr. Freudenretch is survived by eight children. Funeral services at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Mitchell, Thirteenth and Main streets, Sharpsburg, on Tuesday at 7:30 a. m. Services at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, Sharpsburg, on Tuesday at 8 a. m.

Mrs. William Sherwin.

Mrs. Anna Bates Sherwin, aged 60 years, wife of William Sherwin, died yesterday morning at her home in Braddock avenue, Braddock, after a lingering illness. She was born in Broughton, Leicestershire, England. Her father, John Bates, a well-known citizen of Braddock, died about nine years ago. On October 24, 1867, she was united in marriage with William Sherwin. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Hannah Springer, of Braddock, and four sons: William H. Sherwin of Cleveland; John of Homestead; George of Denora and Robert of Rankin, and also by one sister and three brothers. She was a prominent member of the North Braddock United Brethren church. Her husband was twice burgess of Braddock, served six years on the school board and was also superintendent of public works. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. Services at the late residence by the Rev. I. T. Truxal, and interment in Versailles cemetery.

Funeral of William Rerdon.

The funeral of William Rerdon, the street car conductor who died from injuries received in an accident several days ago, occurred yesterday afternoon from the residence of his brother, Daniel Rerdon, at 27 Petrel street, Allegheny. About 150 of the employes of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, including a band, were present and took part in the funeral cortege from the residence as far as Federal street. Services were held in St. Francis Xavier church, and the interment took place in St. Mary's cemetery. A requiem mass in memorium will be sung at the same church this morning at 8 o'clock.

Col. William Jack.

Col. William Jack died yesterday at Hollidaysburg, Pa., aged 92. He was president of the First National bank of Hollidaysburg for 33 years, and was also president of the Martinsburg Deposit bank, and Williamsburg bank for many years. He was clerk of the Pennsylvania house of representatives in 1838. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Mrs. Anise Kelley.

Mrs. Anise Kelley, widow of Dr. W. J. Kelley, died at her home in Butler, Pa., yesterday, aged 74. She was until 12 years ago a resident of Parker. The Hon. A. L. Campbell of Petrolia is a brother and Mrs. R. E. Wilson of Sharon is a sister.

George E. Thompson.

George E. Thompson, an employe of the Mellon National bank of Pittsburgh, died yesterday at the home of his parents in Butler, Pa., of lung trouble. He was 25 years of age and the son of Councilman James W. Thompson of Butler.

Do You Remember the Excitement of June 7th, When Trafford City Was Born? Then Don't Fail To Be Ready For the Grand

FREE EXCURSION
SATURDAY, SEPT. 13TH

To the Opening Sale of Lots in First Addition to TRAFFORD CITY!

Investors can have no idea of the opportunity to make money that this great sale affords until they look up some of the facts or see the property with their own eyes. It is the second time in the history of town-building that people will have a chance to press in and get prices that are really beneath present market value.

Never since the Great excitement that characterized the building up of the Western States has there been such a tremendous call for property in one particular locality.

Since that famous opening day, when investors walked over each other in their effort to pull the sale tags off the stakes, all the streets of Trafford City have been paved, sidewalks have been put down, city water has been turned on, electric lights are being placed, and the Pittsburgh Railways Co.'s traction line, connecting Pittsburgh and intermediate points with Trafford City, has been completed.

Another big trolley line will be built from Trafford City to Greensburg, Blairsville and Apollo. Saltsburg, Indiana county, is to be the center of this extensive system.

Yet of all these improvements there is nothing as great as the fundamental cause of them—the great new Westinghouse Foundries. The foundation and structual iron work on the pattern shop of this immense plant are up, and the brick work is now being laid.

The foundations for the first foundry building are finished, and excavations are being made for the foundations of the second foundry building.

The first foundry will be in operation early next spring, with 3,500 men employed. When the entire plant is completed there will be employment for 10,000 men. This will occur in less than a year, and from such a tremendous impetus will spring a city of at least 50,000 people.

In fact, all previous Westinghouse town-building records have been distanced! This means a great deal, since former Westinghouse achievements were never paralleled.

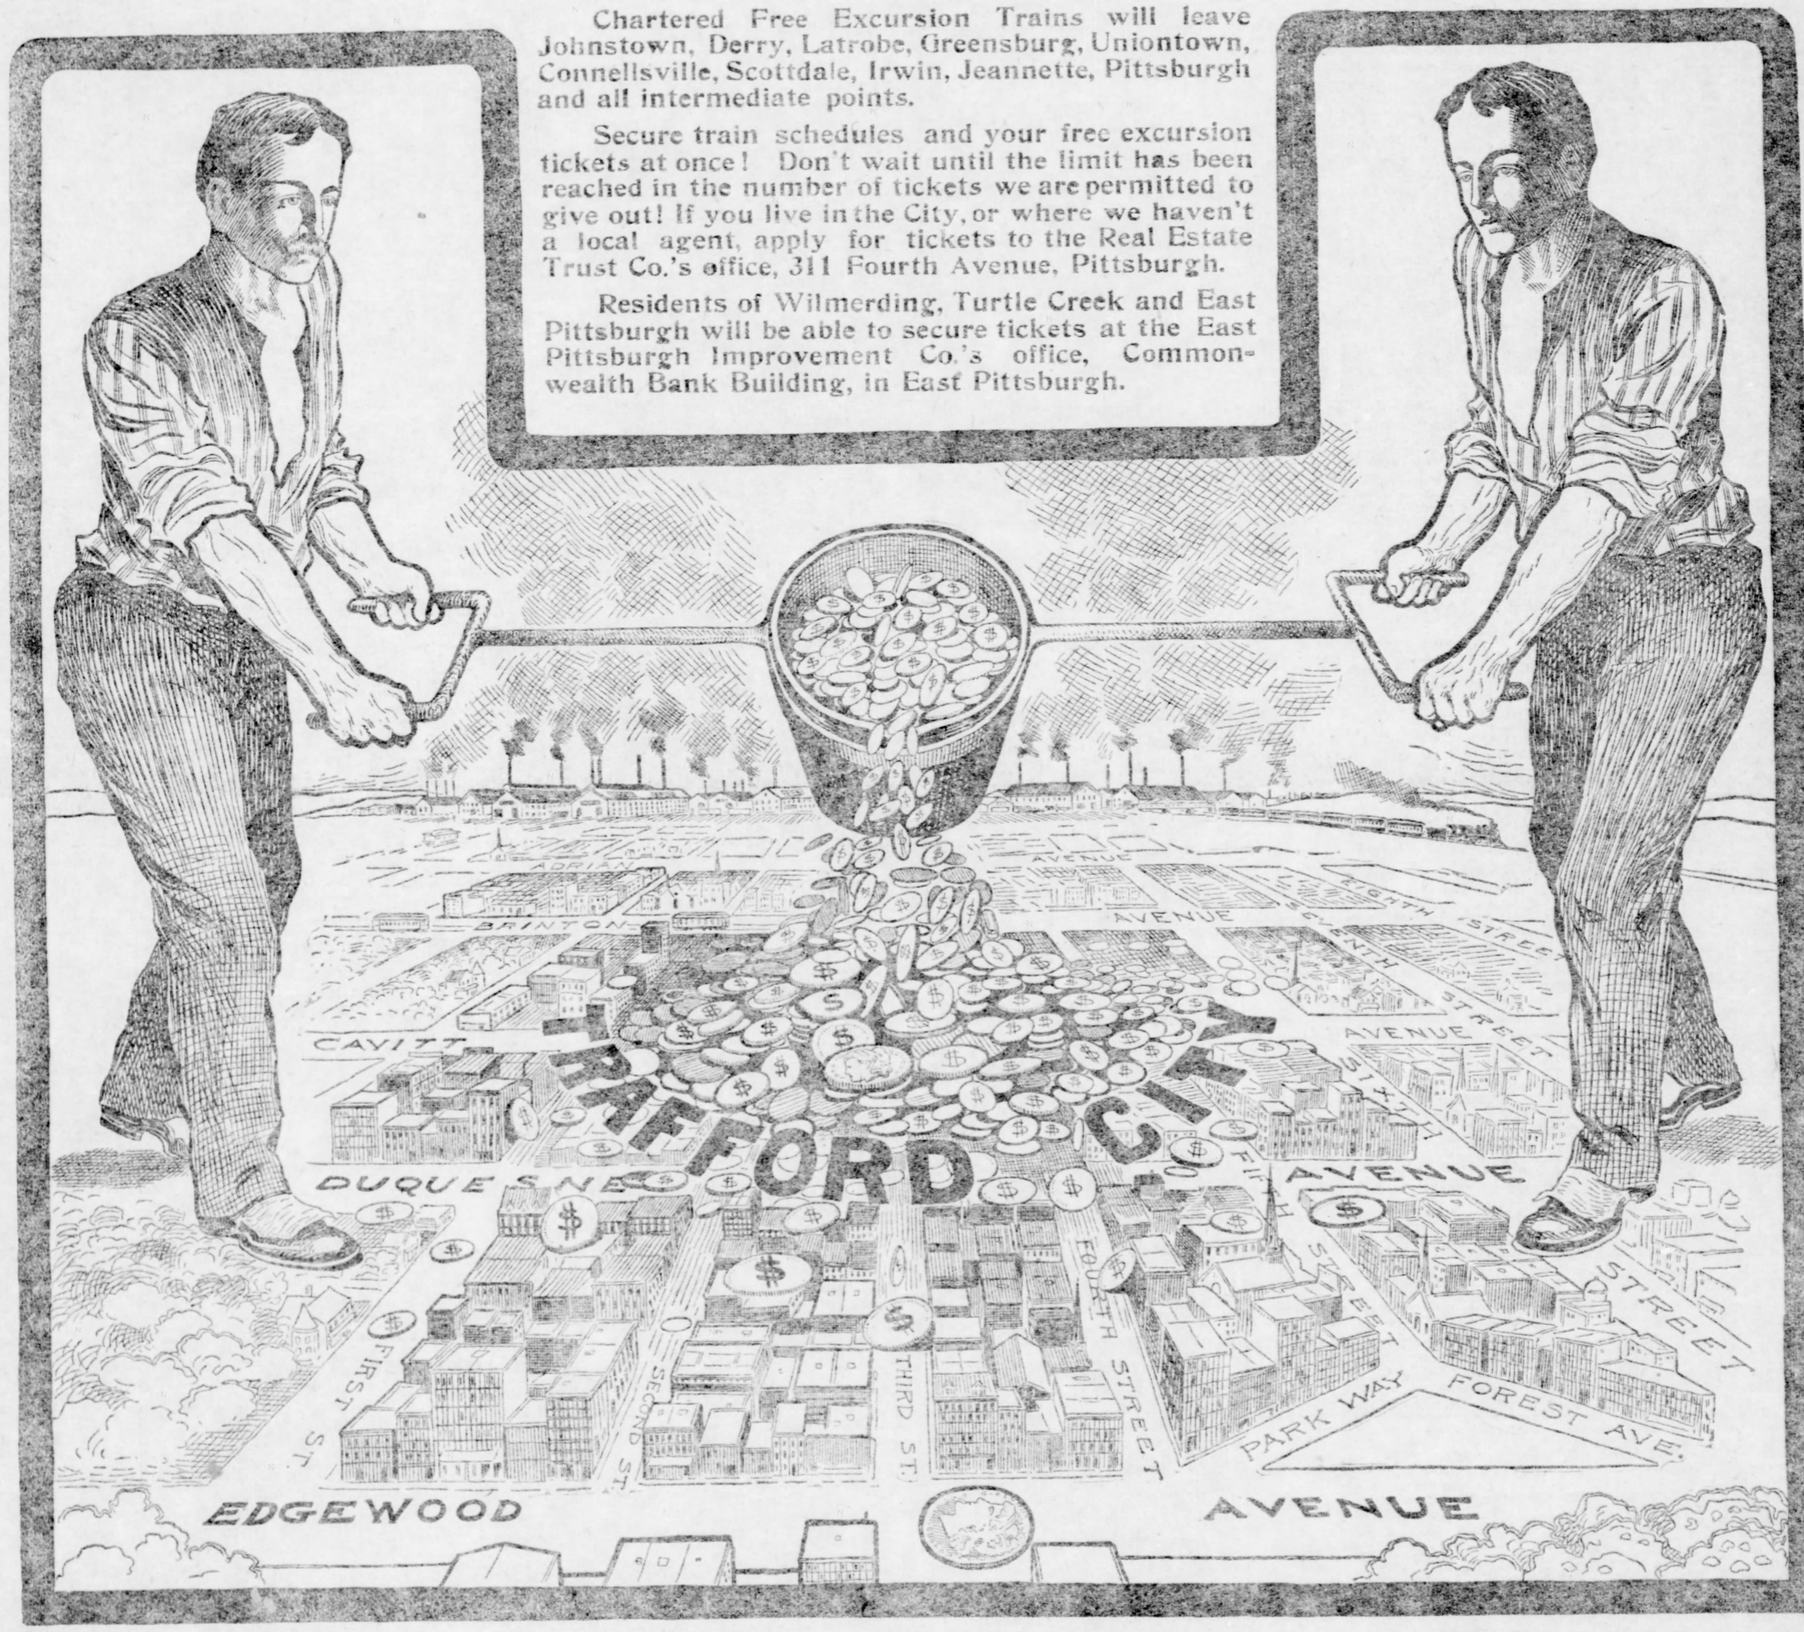
To give you some idea of the progress that has been made in a few short weeks we will state that the Westinghouse Machine Co. has let contracts for the building of twenty-five modern brick residences; also for a $50,000 three-story brick hotel, which will contain a magnificent cafe and cosy reading rooms on the first floor.

There will also be a fine banking institution, to be known as the Trafford City National Bank. It will erect, at a cost of $25,000, a handsome three-story brick structure on the corner of Brinton Avenue and Fifth Street. Lots in this neighborhood which sold at the opening sale on June 7th at $850 are reselling today at $1,500. The southwest corner of Cavitt Avenue and Fifth Street, that was sold originally at $2,250, has been resold at $4,100. Advances like this are numerous. They are not the exception.

Chartered Free Excursion Trains will leave Johnstown, Derry, Latrobe, Greensburg, Uniontown, Connellsville, Scottdale, Irwin, Jeannette, Pittsburgh and all intermediate points.

Secure train schedules and your free excursion tickets at once! Don't wait until the limit has been reached in the number of tickets we are permitted to give out! If you live in the City, or where we haven't a local agent, apply for tickets to the Real Estate Trust Co.'s office, 311 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburgh.

Residents of Wilmerding, Turtle Creek and East Pittsburgh will be able to secure tickets at the East Pittsburgh Improvement Co.'s office, Commonwealth Bank Building, in East Pittsburgh.



When the monster new Westinghouse Foundries at Trafford City are completed they will pour out in workingmen's wages wealth bound to make every lot in the plan a regular mint for the investor.

TO MAKE A FAST SALE OF THE LOTS IN ADDITION TO TRAFFORD CITY

and get building operations in motion all over the great new Westinghouse town, we have set a popular price on every site that will be offered. Choice lots will be sold at $150, $200, $250, $300, $350, and $400.

Some extra choice sites have been priced a little higher. Yet in every instance the price is at least 25 per cent less than the lots can be sold for the day following the sale. You can measure this statement by incidents that happened on June 7 and learn that it is surely a conservative one—that the opportunity to make big money has been trebled owing to the building operations, completion of street improvements, and the extensive but partial construction of the immense works.

The terms on which lots will be sold are:

10 PER CENT DOWN.
BALANCE 3 PER CENT MONTHLY.
NO TAXES OR INTEREST UNTIL DELIVERY OF DEED.
15 PER CENT DISCOUNT FOR CASH.

This discount is allowed when purchaser pays all cash within thirty days or pays one-third cash within thirty days and gives bond and purchase money mortgage for the balance, payable in two equal annual installments with interest.

All lots on residence streets will be sold with restrictions requiring that houses be built back 20 feet from the sidewalk.

The title of the property will be guaranteed to each purchaser by a free policy issued by the Real Estate Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Capital and Surplus $3,500,000.

POSITIVELY NO LOTS WILL BE SOLD AT THIS NEXT GREAT SALE UNTIL EXCURSION TRAINS FROM THE EAST HAVE ARRIVED.

We have come to this decision, for the reason that during the first great sale so many persons from a distance found the lots snapped up before their trains arrived, notwithstanding that not a lot was sold or offered for sale until the day or date advertised. Knowing the rush there would be for the property, investors naturally came ahead of the excursion trains (in many instances camped on the grounds all night) to be ready to get first pick.

With such a tremendous and unexpected demand for the property at the early morning hours, it was not surprising that the plan was sold off in such sensational time.

We have, therefore, decided to protect the distantly-located lot buyers at this next sale by holding the property open until all the excursion trains are in, thus guaranteeing to all comers an equal opportunity.

This second plan presents just as great an opportunity for investors as the property that was put on the market in the first memorable sale. It is an extension of the first plan into just as finely situated land, made valuable by the unprecedented march of improvement that has taken place on the lots sold at the opening event, when, in less than three-fourths of a day, $535,000 worth of property was bought up by the first investors, and $70,000 worth resold one to three hours later at large advances.

No doubt the marvelous expansion of all the Westinghouse industries, brought about by the finding of many new markets in various parts of the world, has stimulated the money-making proclivities of investors to an extent that has certainly astonished the real estate men of the entire country. Yet the demand for Westinghouse property has not opened their eyes any more than has the success of the Westinghouse industries, for the reason that the Westinghouse industrial expansion has built up, on actual figures, 23 per cent more real estate wealth to the money invested, than has Pullman or any of the famous commune-establishing industries of Germany or Europe.

You can see from this that investors had substantial reasons for wedging in ahead of the excursion trains at the last great sale. What if men and women did camp out all night, resting under no other counterpane than the blue sky, when at daybreak it was possible to pocket from $500 to $5,000 of clear money? The Pittsburgh "Times," in its great "scare-head" article the next morning, in the first columns on its first page, did not overstep the bounds of veracity one word when it stated that Oklahoma had been out-Oklahomaed. 2,000 people were on the grounds trying to buy lots five hours after the last lot had been sold. The excursion trains alone carried 4,600 people. When these 4,600 people arrived on the plan there were at least 5,000 people there that took earlier trains and came in the night before, all of which shows that property with the Westinghouse guarantee of success back of it is preferred to any other in the market.

It is said that one man made $11,000 the next day reselling lots that he and his friends had purchased. A woman cleared $3,900 before she left the porch in front of the pay window.

REAL ESTATE TRUST COMPANY, Agent.

Got a Picture of Himself—Capt. David J. Owens, president of the Union League Republican club, Sixth ward, was given a surprise by the members of the club and of the Republican Ward association Saturday night when they presented him with a life-sized portrait of himself.

More Delegates to Erie—The Allegheny County Political club met last night and elected delegates to the convention of the State league at Erie, as follows: Adolph Edlis, Max Rabin and B. C. Barton. The alternates are Max Silverman, Samuel Frankel and Max Lazarevitz.

Altar Was Unveiled—A beautiful altar was unveiled yesterday morning in St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Whitehead. The bishop was assisted by the Rev. Dr. E. H. Ward, rector of St. Peter's. The altar is a gift of John W. Garland, and is an artistic piece of work. Bishop Whitehead preached the sermon.

Crap Shooters Arrested—Eight men were arrested and locked up in Allegheny Central station yesterday afternoon charged with violating city ordinances. They are Edward Ringold and Harry Cross, both of Allegheny, arrested for crap shooting, and Leonard Snyder, William Gordon, John A. Mealey and John Woods, who have no homes, arrested for loafing on River avenue.

Both Were Arrested—George Snee of No. 12 Tricnic street, and Georgia Conlon of No. 918 James street, Allegheny, went to the North Side police headquarters yesterday to settle a dispute about some money which Snee accused the woman of taking. Detective Philip P. McDonough tried to arbitrate the matter when the two began quarreling and McDonough locked them both up for disorderly conduct.

Policeman Accepted Defi—For making the night hideous with their hilarious and disorderly conduct, a social gathering of Slavs and Hungarians at No. 46 River avenue, Allegheny, was raided last night and about 40 of the noisiest participants were landed in Central station. Officer Louis Herrman was defied to arrest them, but he gathered a squad and performed the feat and the entire crowd left forfeits for their appearance this morning.

Held Up by Two Negroes—James Bowman, employed at the Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, crossing of the Pennsylvania company, was held up by two negroes last night about 9 o'clock. He was walking up Penn avenue when the two negroes sprang in front of him and ordered "hands up." Bowman yelled for help and two Pennsylvania railroad police came to his rescue. The robbers took flight and were not captured. They did not secure any valuables from Dempster.

Injured Woman Is Better—The Passavant hospital authorities notified Superintendent of Police John McAleese yesterday that Mrs. Elma Pononot, the Italian woman who was badly beaten by her husband, Fasquale Pononot, in a house in Poplar alley last Monday, had recovered sufficiently to be able to leave the hospital and that they would not be accountable for her. An officer was sent to the hospital and she was removed to Central station.

"Danny" Smith Runs Away Again—"Danny" Smith, the 9-year-old boy, whose parents reside at No. 111 Ninth street, who was reared in Boston, and who does not like Pittsburgh, ran away from home yesterday for the sixth time in six weeks. His mother sent him for a pitcher of milk, and as he did not return the police were notified. He was arrested at Turtle Creek last night by the officers of that place and the Pittsburgh authorities notified.

Drew Knife on a Robber—Officer L. H. House was attracted by loud screams in an alley off Seventh avenue last night and found Alisto Ignazio of No. 1340 Penn avenue chasing a colored woman with a knife. While he arrested the Italian the woman got away. Ignazio claimed the woman robbed him of some money, and a half hour later when Officer House arrested Annie Smith of No. 1238 Liberty avenue, he identified her as the woman. She protested her innocence, but was locked up.

Addition to the Casino—Ground will be broken this morning in Braddock avenue, East Pittsburgh, for a large addition to the new Casino building, opened a month or two ago for the benefit of the employes of the Westinghouse electric works at that place. The addition will embrace a billiard hall, bowling alley, gymnasium, library and other modern club facilities which cannot be had in the present building. The addition will be practically a separate building. It will cost about $7,000.

Was Killed by Street Car—C. W. Croft of Center street, Versailles borough, employed by the Federal Telephone Company, was fatally injured yesterday morning by being struck by a traction car. He was crossing the street, near the Versailles car barns of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Connellsville Street Railway Company, and in attempting to escape a shifting car, was struck by a car coming from Olympia park. He was removed to the McKeesport hospital, where death ensued two hours later. He was 32 years old and went to Versailles from Washington, Pa., about six months ago. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Get New Positions—John A. Utech, formerly private secretary to General Manager A. R. Hunt of the Duquesne steel works, who resigned several days ago, becomes assistant today to Joseph E. Schwab, a brother of Charles M. Schwab, the new president of the American Steel Foundries Company, recently organized by C. M. Schwab, H. G. Saylor, who has been clerk in the office of Thomas E. Watt, district passenger agent of the Pennsylvania railroad in this city, for some time, became the successor to Mr. Utech, and enters upon his duties today. Besides private secretary, he becomes assistant to Mr. Hunt.

Schools Will Be Opened—The public schools of East McKeesport will open this morning. The opening was delayed a week by the fact that an addition to the old school building was not finished last Monday. The addition contains four rooms. Prof. H. H. Broad of Mercer, Pa., the new principal, who was successful in breaking the deadlock for the position, after the school board had held more than a dozen special meetings and cast 87 ballots, arrived in Wilmerding Saturday. The pupils from the four rooms in the Pleasant Hill school, in Versailles township, will attend the East Pittsburgh schools until their school building is repaired.

Charged With Cutting—Michael Stulak of Gladstone street, Allegheny, is locked up in the Northside Central station for a hearing before Police Magistrate Henry Hunnesbagen charged with felonious assault and battery. The information is made by Andy Humnaic of No. 58 Ashton street, Allegheny, who alleges that on the evening of August 11 he was attacked by Stulak, who cut him on the head, left shoulder and right arm with a large clasp knife, and that he was confined to St. John's General hospital for several weeks on account of his injuries. Stulak escaped after the cutting and was not arrested until late Saturday night. Detective Philip P. McDonough made the arrest.

Husband Knocked Him Down—Because he spoke to a wife of another William Smite of No. 7 Marion street is lying in the Central police station with several painful scalp wounds. Thomas Madden, who assaulted him, and his wife Minnie are also occupants of the police station. Last evening, he says, he was walking by Madden's house at Wylie avenue and Tunnel street, when Mrs. Madden spoke to him. Her husband struck him over the head with a chair. The blow knocked him down the front steps and Madden jumped on him. Officer J. R. Bishop hurried to the scene and placed all three under arrest. They will be arraigned for a hearing this morning before Police Magistrate D. J. McGarey.

Many Came to Altar—The Knoxville Methodist Protestant church, where the annual conference has been in session for the past three days, began a revival last night under very encouraging circumstances. There was a very large congregation in attendance. The Rev. J. C. Bloomfield of the Fourth Methodist Protestant church, Pittsburgh, preached the sermon and was assisted in conducting the service by the Rev. W. H. Gladden of McKeesport and Dr. Foster, pastor of the church. At the end of the sermon 20 young people came forward to the altar. The meetings will be continued this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Tonight the Rev. Alfred B. Fletcher will preach, and tomorrow night Dr. Bloomfield will occupy the pulpit.

Says He Gave Bad Check—Mrs. Thomas Forrester of Rankin was detained for a time yesterday at detective headquarters on complaint of E. Browarsky, a liquor dealer at No. 1227 Fifth avenue, who alleged she gave him a worthless check for $25 last Thursday. Browarsky said she had formerly lived in Soho street and that he had cashed several city warrants for her before, when her husband worked for the city. On Thursday she asked him to cash a check signed with the name of Jennie Minner and drawn on the Pittsburgh bank for savings. She said the name was her own before marriage and that she had an account there. When he presented the check he found it untrue, he says, and after some days' search located the woman in her new home at Rankin. He induced her to accompany him to detective headquarters, but the officers refused to lock her up.

NEITHER CLASS NOR RACE IN CHURCH

The Rev. Alfred Nicholson Reminds Congregation of Its Duties to All Comers.

"I want you to consider the house of God, in its superiority to every human resort," said the Rev. Alfred Nicholson, pastor of the East End Presbyterian church, yesterday morning in the course of his sermon.

"This superiority comes from the fact it welcomes to its altar all classes and conditions of men. Lord Beaconsfield says: 'I recognize the church as thoroughly sincerely catholic, adapted to all climes and all ages.' Herein is her glory, her dominion and her sway over the lives of men. Mankind in all other associations are drawn together from the accidents of external circumstances such as nationality, wealth or avocation.

"In the house of God all class distinction is lost. There is neither Jew nor Greek, bond or free, male or female but all one in Christ.

"The church is a garden enclosed. It is given to us to love and care for that garden, lest some one coming to worship may be bitten by a serpent or stung by a nettle or quilled by a porcupine. If any meet with such a grievous experience, they will no more repeat the joyous refrain of the text. Some have suffered so much in their church relations that they feel like saying with Mrs. Partington, when asked what church she went to, 'Any church,' she replied, 'where the gospel is explained away.' Uncharitable and angular worshipers do more to explain away the gospel than all the devices of the higher critics.

"'Some Christians,' says Chatfield, 'are like chestnuts, very pleasant nuts, but enclosed in very prickly burs.' Unfortunately they carry the burs to church and more people get a prick of the bur than a taste of the kernel.

Judge Durand Improving.

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—The improvement in Judge George H. Durand, the Democratic candidate for governor, continues beyond the greatest hopes of his friends. His friends today notified Chairman Whiting that they would be able to announce at the conference of party leaders in Grand Rapids next Tuesday whether or not Judge Durand's name could be left on the ticket.

Work Begins On It in Earnest This Week and Will Be Pushed.

THE LOCATION IS OPPOSITE MONONGAHELA

Companies to Be Incorporated to Furnish Water, Gas and Homes for 1,200 Operatives — New Works of Liggett Company.

As the mushroom is said to perennially multiply, once its germinating seed has been sown, so are industrial towns increasing roundabout this city, the parent industrial center. Unlike the vegetable parasite, these new dots on the map are permanent, and do not wither and die after a short, precarious existence; on the contrary, the new towns expand and throw off others that will in a few years make this particular section a greater beehive of industry than was ever dreamed of.

Topographers engaged in the future on maps of Allegheny county will have to take into consideration the latest dot that has been added. Fostered by the financial influence and the moral backing of the Liggett Spring & Axle Company of this city, "Axleton" will shortly come into existence just opposite Monongahela. High up on a hill the streets of the new town are now being laid out, lots have been surveyed and a pike, winding it way down the hillside, is now under construction.

The Liggett Spring & Axle Company own about 170 acres of hill and bottom land on the site of the new town. One hundred and forty acres are on the hilltop and 30 acres, approximately, are down on the bottom lands, where the new manufacturing plants of the company are to be built. These will be very extensive and are to be operated by electricity exclusively, with the exception of a steam trip-hammer. These new mills will employ 800 or 900 men, for whose benefit the town will be brought into existence. The Coshocton Iron Company will also establish a mill in the new town and will require a force of about 300 men as operatives. This will bring the population of Axleton up to 1,200, which is considered by the projectors of the venture as a very good beginning indeed.

Three companies, consisting of the stockholders of the two industrial concerns which are to form the backbone of the new center, have been organized and will shortly be incorporated, for the purpose of supplying the residents of Axleton with water and light and, primarily, homes. A well was drilled some time ago and an ample supply of natural gas has resulted.

Wells for the purpose of securing an artesian water supply will be drilled near the river and a pumping station will be installed to force the water up the hill into the homes of the inhabitants.

Model houses, the construction of which will depend largely upon the desires of the prospective population, will be built and immediately disposed of, preference being given to the men employed in the mills of the two companies. Pipe mains for water, gas and sewerage purposes will be laid. The work is to start in every detail in earnest next week.

The plans of the plants have been completed and work will be begun on their foundations next week. It is desired that everything shall be completed so as to allow operations to be commenced in January of next year, or February at the latest. Axleton will continue its existence for a time as an unincorporated village, but if the present plans of the promoters are favored by fortune the legislature will be petitioned to declare it a borough three years hence at the farthest.

BIG PHILIPPINE EXHIBIT.

Dr. Wilson of Philadelphia to Have Charge of Products Sent to St. Louis Exposition.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Gov. Taft of the Philippine islands has appointed Dr. William P. Wilson of Philadelphia special commissioner to represent the Philippine government in the preparation of the extensive exhibit which Gov. Taft intends shall be made at the St. Louis exposition of 1904.

The government of the Philippines will participate in the exposition upon a large scale in order to adequately demonstrate the natural resources of the islands and present to the world evidence of the promised importance of these new possessions.

Dr. Wilson is in New York consulting with President Francis of the exposition on the character and scope of the exhibit which will occupy 40 acres. The appropriation for it already made exceeds $500,000.

Dr. Wilson is director of the Philadelphia museums. He is a graduate of Harvard and for four years was an instructor in botany in that university.

Died at the Telephone.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Miss Elizabeth Proctor, sister of A. T. Proctor, a photographer well known over West Virginia, died suddenly here today while talking with a friend over the long-distance telephone. She came here but recently from Charleston.

You would believe a friend who told you he had been cured of these perilous consequences of overwork, dyspepsia, vertigo, palpitation, &c. Friends for nearly three-quarters of a century have related a like experience with Dr. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge.

DOUGLAS WILL LEAVE CITIZENS IF NOT INDORSED

He Is Very Much in Earnest in Trying for Recordership.

PRESENT POSITION THAT OF RULE OR RUIN.

Prefers Flinn to Bigelow as a Boss and Claims Support of Younger Element in All Parties—Change in Committee.

Select Councilman Robert H. Douglas is very much in earnest in his intention of becoming a candidate for city recorder next February. For several weeks past he has been making plans for this. He is arranging to have nomination papers on which the names of thousands of voters shall appear. He is out in the open and he expressed himself yesterday as being in the "fight to a finish." With him it is practically a case of rule or ruin.

Douglas proposes to either have the indorsement of the Citizens party or else put loose from it and once more affiliate with those of his friends who are still counted as belonging to the machine. In case the Citizens party should decline to indorse his candidacy, he thinks that with the backing of friends in the Republican organization and in the Democratic party, together with a large following of the younger element in the Citizens organization, he can make a sufficiently formidable showing to warrant him in entering the lists for the city recordership prize with a considerable show of success. Douglas has a partial grievance against the Citizens party. He says there is too much "one-man power."

Douglas is quoted as saying that he would rather serve in politics under his former boss, Senator William Flinn, than under Thomas S. Bigelow, for the reason that Flinn has "more political sense."

Douglas and Flinn fell out several years ago. Douglas favored making the chairmen of the ward executive committees men of more power than Flinn was willing they should be. Flinn's policy was to be the real and only thing. He did not favor partnerships with ward chairmen. It was on this point that he and Douglas split and became estranged, and they have bitterly opposed each other ever since.

Following his break with Flinn, Douglas became prominent in organizing the Citizens movement. Time after time he fought against the power of Flinn, usually being driven back into the tall timber, but time and time again he returned, each time accompanied by a stronger following, until at last there came a turn in the tide of politics and the crushing defeat of Flinn's ring last February is now a matter of history.

Having fought valiantly in the ranks of the Citizens party all these years, Douglas now proposes to be recognized, and if the Citizens party will not give him that recognition he will look elsewhere for it. According to Douglas, there are two factions in the committee controlling the affairs of the Citizens party. One faction wants one man to be the candidate for city recorder and the other wants another man. Neither of these men is said to be satisfactory to Douglas. He has expressed himself as opposed to the part Thomas S. Bigelow is taking in the direction of the Citizens party and he says he has many supporters in the stand he has taken. It was after several conferences with these dissatisfied ones and with other political workers, men identified with the machine and the Democratic party, that Douglas decided to become a candidate for recorder.

One story going the rounds of political circles is that Douglas, in case he is not given an indorsement of his candidacy by the Citizens party and a Citizens man should be elected, is around with pledges from members of the select council combine who will be hold-over members, to oppose and refuse to confirm all nominations made by the new recorder.

William F. Kramer, chairman of the machine ward executive committee of the Twenty-first ward, will resign his position in favor of former Councilman J. M. Clark. There has been more or less dissatisfaction expressed by the machine workers of this ward about the results obtained by Chairman Kramer.

Kramer, it is said, has been too vindictive in suggesting the dismissal from the city's service of men suspected of being disloyal to the ring. It is said that the dismissal of several firemen and policemen can be traced back to his suggestions. He has had frequent meetings of a "reign of terror" at No. 6 police station, and following these meetings a list of office holders scheduled for decapitation would be handed to Director A. L. Leslie of the department of public safety and then the ax would fall.

This mode of procedure has left many sore spots and instead of strengthening the ring forces in the East End is said to have materially weakened them. Dissensions have arisen and Kramer's removal has been demanded and decided upon. The shift will probably take place at a meeting of the committee tomorrow evening. Clark will, it is expected, be chosen to succeed Kramer. The name of Albert Garsides, a plumber, has been suggested for the place, but Clark seems to be the man of destiny for this particular chairmanship.

THIS IS SOUSA WEEK AT THE EXPOSITION

Specially Brilliant Musical Programs Will Mark Celebration of Tenth Anniversary of the Band.

With today there begins at the Pittsburgh exposition a week that will be memorable. It is to be Sousa week, in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the genial bandmaster's famous organization, and programs of rare brilliancy have been arranged. This afternoon and tomorrow public school children will be out in force, supplemented by the crowds for the evening concerts.

Wednesday evening Estelle Liebling of New York will appear as soloist with the band in selections that are certain to arouse enthusiasm and admiration.

The exposition is now in perfect trim, and invites the closest possible attention in every department. Sousa's program for this afternoon follows:

THOUSANDS WERE OUT IN THE PARKS

LOVELY AUTUMN DAY TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF.

Great Throng of Out-of-Town Visitors at Highland—Fine Chrysanthemum Show.

All the pleasure resorts and breathing spots in and around the city were crowded with pleasure seekers yesterday. It was a beautiful autumn day. A pleasant south wind swept through the parks, and fleecy clouds covered the sky. The rain had brightened up the grass, plants and flowers, and the autumn haze lent a charm to all. Although nature was smiling yesterday, all around were evidences that her mood will soon change. The changing green of the maples to scarlet, and the falling leaf are indications that the frost king's destroying breath will soon be felt, and that leafless trees and dead grass will replace the life of the woods and meadows.

Highland park never looked more beautiful than yesterday, as the thousands who visited it can testify. Hundreds of robins and other birds could be seen in large communities throughout the shady nooks of the park preparing for their southern journey. A solitary red squirrel who had made his home in one of the oaks, chattered most of the afternoon as he munched an acorn.

The crowd was much larger than that of the previous Sunday, and the majority of the visitors were strangers. During the entire afternoon the zoo was uncomfortably crowded. The animals were all in fine fettle, and appeared to know they were on parade for the strangers. The improvements at Highland park are going along rapidly. An enclosure is being constructed in the bellgator house for the East Indian antelope, and during the week this pretty animal will be taken from its quarters on the hill and placed in the zoo, as will the gnu and the sacred Zebu cows. During the past week the different species of bears have been separated and placed in cages by themselves. The four cinnamon bears have been given two cages, and the four black bears have two cages. The four Russian bears have been given three cages. As these bears are as fond of the water as are the polar bears, an entrance has been opened for them into the cage and tank formerly occupied by the sea lions, now dead.

During the week the zoo received a small alligator as a donation from William A. Cook of No. 2306 Carson street.

There were a number of visitors to the Phipps conservatory in Schenley park yesterday. The chrysanthemums are coming along nicely. While the plants are strong no buds have yet appeared. Superintendent William Falconer says the show will open the last Sunday in October, and that the indications are that it will be the finest display in many years.

Dr. W. J. Holland, who has been in the east for the past week, returned home yesterday. He brought with him proofs of the plates for his new moth book. There will be 51 colored plates in the book showing all the varieties of the moths of North America.

It is possible that the collection of birds' eggs owned by J. Warren Jacobs of Waynesburg will be placed on exhibition in the Carnegie museum this fall. Last spring Mr. Jacobs offered to loan his collection of 8,000 eggs to the museum, but Dr. Holland could not at that time accept the offer, as there was no room in the museum to display them. If space can be found Dr. Holland will have them on exhibition by Founder's day.

TRACTION PARKS DREW CROWDS YESTERDAY

An Ideal Sunday Was Taken Advantage of Thousands to Go to the Resorts.

Thousands of people took advantage of an ideal Sunday to visit the traction resorts yesterday. The trolley cars carried large crowds to Kennywood, Calhoun, Oakwood and Southern parks, where concerts were given afternoon and evening. Kennywood had by far the largest crowds. The musical attraction there was the Huntingdon City band, which made its first appearance at that park.

Several carloads of excursionists came to Pittsburgh with the band. The musicians made a big hit, every number being applauded.

The Pittsburgh Philharmonic orchestra and the Harris trio of vocalists were the attractions at Calhoun park. Officials of the traction company who are interested in making the coming picnic of employes a success visited the park and decided upon certain arrangements for the big event.

At Oakwood park the Homestead Library band and Joseph Cunningham, a singer of illustrated songs, were the attractions. They pleased large audiences afternoon and evening. At Southern park the Second Brigade band gave the concerts. In the afternoon audience were a number of the members of Sousa's band.

This will be the last week of vaudeville at Kennywood and Southern parks, and especially good programs have been arranged, beginning with tonight.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The Pittsburghs and Uticas played a magnificent game in this city today, in which Beaumont scored the only run on his infield hit, a fielder's choice, a base on balls and Ritchey's fly to center field.

Both Cushman and Pounds pitched very effectively. The visiting infield put up a brilliant game and the fielding of Hilley and Taylor for the Uticas was of a high class.

One of the features was a magnificent running catch by Lawler of a low drive by Wagner. The weather was threatening during the first part of the afternoon, and this had some effect on the attendance, which was 1,000. The score:

DOHENY'S FINE PITCHING.

It Was Responsible for the Champions' Victory Over New York on Saturday.

Through the excellent pitching of Doheny the champions had little trouble in defeating McGraw's rejuvenated New York Giants on Saturday at the polo grounds by the score of 9 to 3. There was nothing to the game but the Pirates' south-paw twirler, and he let the New Yorks down with six hits.

Mathewson, the great, was sent on the firing line for the Giants, but his famous out-drop ball was batted all over the lot by the Pittsburgh players. Tommy Leach and Honus Wagner made sensational plays and Burke did well at the bat. The score:

CYCLE RACES TAME.

Sport Was Fairly Good, But Enthusiasm Lacking, as None of Champions Took Part.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The sport at Vaflesburg today was good, but as none of the champions took part, the enthusiasm was not as great as usual.

The motor-paced race was won by Nat Butler in straight heats. Nelson took second place. In the second heat Butler created new, single-paced records from one to five miles. The times were: One mile, 1:22 4-5; two miles, 2:44 3-5; three miles, 4:06; four miles, 5:31 2-5, and five miles, 6:56. Joe Nelson held the old record for five miles, 7:10.

The novelty race for amateurs was run in heats, the winners of the fastest heat getting first place. Billington and Dove won. Billington also captured the one-mile handicap. The summaries:

Novelty race, half mile, amateur—Won by Teddy Billington, N. Y. A. C., and M. T. Dove, New York. Time, 1:00 2-5. George Glasson, Bay View Wheelmen, and Edwin Goodwin, Jersey City, second. Time, 1:01.

One mile handicap, amateur—Won by Teddy Billington, N. Y. A. C., scratch; F. A. Dahike, Buffalo, 100 yards, second; Charles Schlee, Newark T. C., 200 yards, third. Time, 2:31.

Five mile, single motor-paced race. First heat—Won by Nat Butler, Cambridgeport; Ben Monroe, Memphis, second; Joe Nelson, Newark, third. Time, 6:57. Second heat—Won by Nat Butler; Joe Nelson, second; H. B. Freeman, third; Ben Monroe fourth. Time, 6.56.

Five mile single motor-paced race—Won by J. De Kosler, Paris; F. W. White, Chelsea, second; R. J. Bennett, Newark, third. Time, 6:42 2-5.

MORE LIGHT SHED ON NEW YORKERS

PLAYERS FROM THIS CITY WITH THE AMERICAN.

Tannehill Has Signed, But Chesbro and Smith Have Not. Leach May Remain Here.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—More light has been shed upon the placing of an American league team in New York, and it came from a player who has been doing business with the American league, as an organization, and whose name, for obvious reasons, cannot be made public.

"I was told," said he, "that certain players in the National league were to be signed for a New York American league club, and certain American league players were to be transferred to New York, with the understanding, always, that they should play with other American league clubs if it were found impossible to get grounds in New York. I was offered a contract for two years to sign with the American league and not with any special club. The sum of $10,000 cash was to be given me for signing and $8,000 for two years' services. I did not sign the contract, but I may.

"I know only four players who have signed under similar conditions. That is, being promised New York berths if a club is established in New York. These are Tannehill of Pittsburgh and Selbach, Williams and Gilbert of the Baltimore club. I believe that O'Connor, who was acting as agent for the American league while under salary to a National league club, is booked for New York as a catcher. I will admit that he approached me, but I declined to deal with him.

"Davis, the former New York shortstop, now playing with the Chicago American league club, is to be transferred to New York, as Comiskey is disgusted with him. That was told me by the American league agent. Crawford, signed on the surface for Detroit, was in reality intended for New York, and Bransfield was to have played first base in New York had he not declined all American league offers. Burkett will be sent from the St. Louis American league club to New York, as St. Louis wants to get rid of him.

Leach May Not Join.

"An offer has been made to Chesbro, the Pittsburgh pitcher, to induce him to join the American league, with a possibility of being a New York player, but I am positive that he has not accepted it, and I doubt if he will. Leach, the Pittsburgh third baseman, is included in the New York contingent, but from excellent authority I think he will decline to jump. Several of the players who have been extended the largest money inducements are holding aloof, fearing the uncertainty of the proposition, and not caring to play with a baseball nine that shall be located in the Bronx.

"I was also informed that Smith, the Pittsburgh catcher, would be a New York player, and that Davis, the former Pittsburgh outfielder, might fill the vacancy left by the return of Crawford to Cincinnati.

"Information was given out that an effort would be made to secure 'Patsy' Donovan, present manager of the St. Louis National league club, to transfer his allegiance to the proposed New York nine for the American league.

"When I asked the American league agent where the grounds were to be located, he replied that no site had been secured, but an attempt was being made to obtain a field not more than 10 minutes further from the heart of the city than the Polo grounds. He admitted that it was a difficult task. He also gave me to infer that the club would be backed by the syndicate controlling the Boston, Detroit, St. Louis and Washington clubs, and said to be interested in the Chicago club.

"I was told positively that Matthewson and Bowerman had given their word, without qualification, that they would play with the St. Louis American league club next year. Furthermore, there are at least 10 American league players who have been reported as having signed with that organization who are still free, and among them are Wallace, Heidrick, Ferris and Parent."

HOMING PIGEONS RACE.

Local Clubs of Pigeon Fanciers Held Several Young Bird Flights Sunday.

The South Pittsburgh branch of the N. A. of A. H. P. F. held its first young bird race of the season from Coshocton, O., yesterday, 65 birds competing.

The birds were liberated at 8 a. m., and favorite Pittsburger was reported Venus, owned by Edward Claus, reported first, flying an average speed of 1,265.31 yards per minute, followed closely by several others. Birds owned by Charles Salzman of Grove station reported as making a fair average speed of 1,262.92 yards per minute. Mr. Jubtow of Duquesne Heights reported next. The next race will be from Columbus, O., 165 miles, next Sunday.

The Homestead district of the National Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers held its second race of the young bird series from Columbus, O., the 156-mile station, yesterday.

The first to report was R. V. Blankenrother, of Elizabeth, Pa., with a blue checkered hen arriving at 11:15:49 a. m. The third loft was J. M. Salle of Pigeon hill, 2. E. at 11:17:40, followed by A. K. Grieg at 11:21:31 a. m. The next was T. J. Sayle of Wilmerding at 12:01:09 m., followed by Samuel Houppe of Homestead at 12:21:26 p. m.

On account of not receiving telegrams from the liberator the speed could not be reckoned, but the members state that the first loft was reported will be broken. The next race will be from the 200-mile station next Sunday.

Yesterday the Allegheny Homing club held its second young bird race of the season from Newcomerstown, O., 95 miles air line. The birds were liberated at 7:40 a. m. The first loft to report was that of H. Slaney, with Bobs, at 10:12 a. m., speed 1,100 yards per minute. Andrew Anderson, with Jack, at 10:13 a. m., speed 1,092.89 yards; third, W. Young, with Hammer, at 10:13½, speed 1,089 yards; fourth, H. Blair, with Joe, at 10:14½ a. m., speed 1,082 yards; fifth, J. Tait, with 12 birds, at 10:15, speed 1,079 yards; sixth, A. Haddell, with eight birds, at 10:19 a. m., speed 1,065 yards. The next race will be held next Sunday from Newark, O., distance 146 miles.

The East End Homing club of the Pittsburgh district of the N. F. A. H. P. F. drew its first young bird series yesterday from Coshocton, O., the 156-mile station. The birds were liberated at 7:10 a. m., the first to report was the loft of S. C. Fisher at 9:30, making an average speed of 1,237 yards per minute. The second to report, J. Left on loose—St. Louis, 4; Boston, 7. Time—1:37. Umpires—Sheridan and Johnstone.

No Game at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 7.—The American league game between Cleveland and Philadelphia, scheduled for Cleveland today, will be played tomorrow, an open date for both teams. No Sunday games are permitted in this city, hence the change.

TERRY AND CORBETT SPEND QUIET SUNDAY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 7.—This was a day of rest at Camp Corbett, and the champion put in his time seeing his numerous callers.

There was a large crowd all afternoon at the Hill house, but it was only the friends of the fighter that had a chance to see him as he kept himself indoors.

Tomorrow hard work will be resumed and kept up all week. Preparations are still going on for the big show that will be given next Saturday night by Corbett and his trainers and some volunteers. Taking place at night, it will give many an opportunity to see a fighter in training who have never had the opportunity before.

Corbett will box four rounds with each of his sparring partners.

At McGovern's camp, no training was indulged in. In the morning Terry went to church and in the afternoon his ball team crossed bats with the Russell-Morgan team. McGovern's won in the tenth inning when, with two out and a man on base, Terry made a two-bagger, scoring the winning run. In the evening McGovern attended the Columbia theater.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Chicago won the first game by timely hitting and clever base running. Patterson was in good form and held his opponents safe all of the time.

The second game ended in a tie after 13 closely contested innings.

Griffith was hit much harder than Carrick, but the excellent support given the former helped him out of several tight places. Attendance 17,100. Scores:

MAY BREAK STAR POINTER'S RECORD

DAN PATCH OUT FOR A NEW PACING MARK.

Horsemen Are Eager For His Race With Prince Alert on Empire City Track.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Dan Patch, 1:59½, the great son of Joe Patchen, 2:01¼, and the second light harness horse to ever pace a mile under two minutes, is the central figure of the light harness world just now.

The wonderful time made by the black whirlwind in his recent trials have set the horsemen talking, and although he has failed to beat the world's record of 1:58¾, held by Star Pointer, experts believe that he will yet succeed in lowering these figures.

Record breaking is a new feat for Dan Patch, but the manner in which he has been reeling off sensational miles on various tracks and under all conditions shows that he is by far the speediest pacer since Star Pointer made his great record in 1897.

One remarkable thing about the little pacer is that he has come out of his speed trails without the slightest mishap, and he is as sound as he was when he was racing against all comers last year.

From now on Dan Patch will be given a special preparation for his match race with Prince Alert, 2:00¾, which is to take place at the Empire City track the week of September 15. The meeting of these two rivals for championship honors will be a remarkable race, pitviding both horses are in the best condition, as it is a well-known fact that under favorable conditions either horse can go the mile close to two minutes.

Many good judges are of the opinion that Star Pointer's record will be shattered in this race, as each horse will act as pacemaker for the other, and with both out to win they are sure to go their limit from start to finish.

Dan Patch has paced five great miles already this year. In his first attempt at Columbus, on August 2, he paced his mile in 2:00¾, a remarkable performance, and on August 14 at Brighton Beach, under unfavorable conditions, equaled this record.

At Readville, Mass., he clipped a half a second off these figures, and later at Providence, beat the two-minute mark, when he sailed under the wire in 1:59½, just a quarter of a second behind the world's record.

His last performance at Belmont Park, Philadelphia, on Wednesday, was probably one of the most remarkable miles the young pacer has yet traveled. The time was two minutes flat, made on a heavy course, which was made a half a second slow by a rainstorm the night before.

TWO MINISTERS AND THEIR WIVES JOINED CHURCH

Impressive and Unusual Scene Before South Side Congregation.

TALK MORAL COURAGE

After Being Received Into the Church Body, the Rev. George C. Sheppard Preached An Interesting Sermon.

A solemn and unusual spectacle was presented yesterday morning in the South Eighteenth Street Methodist Protestant church when two ministers and their wifes were received into the church as members of the congregation. It was the carrying out of an idea, not at all prevalent in the Methodist Protestant church, but held individually by those who were the principals in yesterday's ceremony. They were the Rev. J. A. Johnson, pastor of the church, and the Rev. George Carter Sheppard of the Washington (Pa.) church, and their wives.

All were received on profession of faith. Not a few of the ministers of the conference expressed themselves as opposed to such a spectacle, asserting that it savors too much of the sensational.

"If a preacher wishes to show good example," said a member of the conference, "there are numerous ways to do it besides this. It may be good in itself, and I don't doubt for a moment that all concerned were earnest, but it is not customary in the Methodist Protestant church."

An Impressive Spectacle.

Nevertheless, the spectacle was a solemn one and will linger long in the memory of the South Eighteenth street congregation. All four knelt before the Rev. George Shaffer and answered the various questions required by church discipline. The congregation was asked if it would receive the applicants, and answered by rising and repeating, individually, "I do." Albert Sankey, a boy of 15 years, was received into the fold at the same time. All agreed to support the church as best they could and abide by its discipline.

A question presents itself whether or not the congregation can insist on the ministers and their wives contributing to the support of the church. The Rev. George Carter Sheppard was the preacher of the day. He made no reference whatever to the unusual spectacle. His subject was "The Evolution of Moral Courage."

The Change in Peter.

Taking for his text, "Then began he to curse and to swear, saying I know not the man;" and again, "But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice," etc., Acts II. He said:

"Here are two actions taken from the same man's history, and they are entirely opposite in character, so utterly divergent are they in spirit. The first action is that of a moral coward, the second that of a man of courage.

"If we study this man's character we shall see between these two phases the evolution of moral courage. Under the searching light of modern criticism it has been discovered that the present race of men is deficient in moral courage. That there are men more apt to act like Peter in denying his Master than in imitating this same man in the laying down of their lives for justice, for honesty of opinion, for all that is good and noble. In studying the surroundings of men of today I think there are tendencies in them to make men timid. The accessories of our modern civilization have much to do with this.

Modern Degeneration.

"Civilization is certainly making life more easy-going than it was a hundred years ago. The spirit of getting crowds out the claims of higher things. Men find it difficult now to heed the vibrations of the soul-element within them. There are many men today who have made everything of life; they are rich, their children are pampered with all the luxuries of the day, yet they are not happy. There is a vacuum. Why? Because the shop is the predominant passion. All shop, no God.

"It were a blessing to such a man did God send him some great sorrow that would rouse his dormant higher instincts. Not only is moral strength decreasing in this country, because of the abnormal restlessness of the mart-traders, but society, with its decrees almost as inalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, has made life and living so conventional that those elements of the nobler life are entirely wiped out—obliterated.

Founder of the Jesuits.

"It is a sad thing for a man to have to show the white feather when there is a glorious opportunity for him to be courageous. Yet too often are there spirits abroad that draw the soul away from the Master and make it deny Him as did Peter.

"Let men keep before them such exemplars of true moral courage as Ignatius Loyola. Here was a soul made more helpless than any human being can conceive. His whole life was a passionate outburst of military achievement. He longed for the first ranks, but when wounded and sick he saw the folly of it all. What did he do? He gave himself to God, and while lying on a bed of suffering planned the organization of that noblest of all Catholic organizations—the Jesuits.

"It was his indomitable will, his undaunted moral courage that made him, from his sick bed, master of the world. Let us look up to these great masters of moral courage and imitate them. They are great examples.

LEADING CATHOLIC CHURCH ORGANIZATION OF BRADDOCK TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

ST. JOSEPH'S GERMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH, BRADDOCK.

REV. P. F. MAY, PASTOR.

The congregation of St. Joseph's German Catholic church, Braddock, is making elaborate preparations for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of its organization. The congregation is one of the oldest German church bodies in the Monongahela valley and the church building in George street, Braddock, is considered the finest church outside of Pittsburgh in Western Pennsylvania. The congregation was organized from the German members of St. Thomas' congregation, and for a short time afterward services were held in a hall in Ninth street, Braddock. The first pastor was the Rev. Father Anthony Fischer, and since then the Rev. Father A. A. Wertenbach, who died recently, and the Rev. Father P. F. May, the present pastor, have had charge of the congregation. The present church building was erected during the rectorship of the Rev. Father Wertenbach and cost nearly $85,000. The celebration of the anniversary will be purely religious and will take place the last week of this month.

EXPLAINED WHY HE BECAME A DISCIPLE

REV. RUSSELL DEMANDED FREEDOM OF THOUGHT.

Pastor of East End Christian Church Tells Why His People Will Increase in Number.

The Rev. W. J. Russell, pastor of the East End Christian church, gave his reasons last night for being a Disciple of Christ. Mr. Russell received his early education and training in the Methodist Episcopal church and studied in its leading institution of learning. Some 20 years ago he changed his views and cast his lot with the Christian church.

"The growth of the Disciples of Christ, he said, "has been phenomenal. As a religious people they number more than 1,500,000. Their colleges, universities, missionary societies and publications of all kinds rank among the best in the world. With such a record we do not hesitate to say that they are the product of the greatest religious movement of the nineteenth century. As such its principles challenge a fair and impartial examination at the hands of all religious people.

"We present the Disciples of Christ then as a living, growing people, the climax of whose prosperity has not yet been reached. We stand on the foundation of orthodox Christianity, accepting the divine inspiration of the holy scriptures of the Old and New Testaments; the fatherhood of God; the brotherhood of man; the divinity of Christ. In accepting and teaching these great truths the Disciples of Christ are in perfect harmony with evangelical Christianity.

"There are, however, peculiar reasons why I am a Disciple of Christ. I am a Disciple of Christ because of the honor the disciples put upon the word of God and their strict fidelity to its teachings, because the keynote of their plea is the restoration of primitive Christianity. They seek to restore the faith of the New Testament in its original simplicity and the Bible to its proper place, as our Rule of Faith and Practice.

"This plea also involves the restoration of the ordinances of the gospel, as they were delivered by divine authority to the early church. It insists that the church and the followers of Christ shall wear the names given by divine authority. If the names Methodist Christians, Presbyterian Christians and Baptist Christians mean anything less than Christian means, they mean too little; if they mean anything more than Christian means, they mean too much; if they mean neither more nor less than Christian means, they are superfluous and divisive. Sectarian divisions and rivalries have been one of the supreme obstacles in the way of the progress of the kingdom of God.

"Finally, I am a Disciple of Christ because it offers freedom and scope for continuous progress in Christian knowledge, without being hampered by any ecclesiastical authority. No church, creed or man has a right to put a limit on my thinking, where God has left me free."

BOTH MEN ARE HELD.

Husband and Companion of Sarah Maxwell Charged With Murder.

Coroner McGeary committed seven people to jail yesterday in connection with the murder of Sarah Jackson, at her home, No. 337 Soho street, on Saturday night. John Jackson, the dead woman's husband, who is said to have killed her, maintains that Alex. Maxwell, her companion, shot her, and he, as well as the husband, is held for murder.

Those held as witnesses are John and Rosie Johnston, Cella Seymore, Daniel Bucker and Frederick Brown, all of whom live in the tenement where the shooting occurred. The inquest will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The bullet that killed the woman took a peculiar course. Entering her head at the chin, it passed up into her brain and struck the skull. It was deflected there, passing vertically around the inside of her head, making its way back through her neck and down into the stomach, where it was found.

PRESBYTERIANS PUSH THE WORK OF EVANGELISM

The Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman Outlines Committee's Plans.

THERE WILL BE SIX HUNDRED WORKERS.

That Number Will Be Sent Into the Work During Coming Year—Whole Church Aroused and Prospects Are Bright.

Two unusually large audiences greeted the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman yesterday in the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Chapman is one of the famous evangelists of the country and is corresponding secretary of the Presbyterian General assembly's evangelistic committee. The morning service in this church yesterday

REV. J. WILBUR CHAPMAN,
A World-Famed Evangelist Who Addressed Two Large Congregations in Pittsburgh Yesterday.

marked the beginning of the regular church work for the season.

An excellent musical program gave additional interest to the services, the First church's noted soloists rarely having been heard to better advantage. In the evening Dr. Chapman took for his subject "An Open Door," the gist of which was an earnest exposition of evangelistic work in the Presbyterian domination.

"Perhaps there has not been a time in 25 years," said Dr. Chapman, "when a wider door of usefulness and opportunity has been opened before the Presbyterian church of today. For the past three years the additions to the membership of the church have not been such as bring much cheer to the pastors, on the contrary the effect has rather been disheartening.

Prospects Are Bright.

"Advance, however, along evangelistic lines has fully reassured us—for our extremity seems to have been God's opportunity—and apathy and indifference have given away to enthusiasm and zeal in the Master's cause.

"There is a rising tide of evangelism in the church today—which is all the more encouraging because of the fact that some of the most noted pastors in the church—are first and foremost in the effort to arouse the entire Presbyterian army in the United States. To encourage and inspire the evangelistic spirit, the general assembly of the church, one year ago in Philadelphia, appointed a special committee of 12 whose business it should be to assist everywhere, to encourage the spirit of evangelism. Mr. John H. Converse, president of the Baldwin locomotive works in Philadelphia, was made chairman and generously met the entire expense of the committee for the first year by placing in the treasury $25,000.

Good Work Appreciated.

"So encouraging was the work of the committee the first year that it was continued for another year, this action being taken by the assembly while in session in New York last May. The work of the committee this year is greatly enlarged. The chairman continues his generous contribution of the first year, other benevolent men have sent contributions and a fund of not less than $150,000 will doubtless be raised to prosecute the work. A largely attended meeting of the committee was held recently at Winona Lake, Ind., where plans were laid for an aggressive work which may be world-wide in the scope of its influence. It is not the policy of the committee to furnish evangelists generally. This is impossible, because the supply is limited and the demand is so great that most of the well-known evangelists are engaged a year in advance.

Great Work Planned.

"But we are sending them into home mission fields, where their salaries are to be supplemented and expenses paid if need be.

"Six hundred evangelists and pastors will be called upon to go at least a month into needy fields. Two thousand five hundred people are enrolled in a circle of prayer for God's blessing in the work.

"An appeal is to be sent out asking that the first week in November be set apart as a time of special effort in behalf of individuals and since personal evangelism seems to be the keynote of this work, ten thousand copies of Henry Clay Trumbull's work 'Individual Work for Individuals,' will be sent without cost to the workers in the church. A conference with the board of home and foreign missions will be held in the early fall, looking to a world-wide effort. Only eternity will reveal the scope of this work."

BADE FAREWELL TO CONGREGATION OF SEVEN YEARS

The Rev. Henry B. Hemmeter Leaves Pastorate of St. Andrew's Church.

HE TALKS OF HIS PAST MINISTRY

After Going Over Work, Calls the Members to Bear Witness That He Has Done His Duty. Prays for Welfare of Church.

The Rev. Henry Bernard Hemmeter, who for the past seven years has been pastor of St. Andrew's Evangelical Lutheran church, severed his connection with that congregation yesterday. Mr. Hemmeter will shortly occupy the chair of literature in the Concordia college at Conover, N. C. As stated in The Gazette heretofore, he is to be succeeded by the Rev. W. P. Sochs of St. Louis. In the course of his farewell address yesterday morning Mr. Hemmeter said:

"As I stand before you today, you, the flock by the grace of God entrusted to me for the last seven years, though insignificant by the side of the prophet, yet in a like calling, I declare my claims in His words. Heaven and earth are my witness, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing.

Has Done His Best.

"God and man must declare that I have preached to you the curse, the death that follows sin, made known and punished by a holy God; that I have preached to you the life, the blessing that is in Him who is Himself the life, and who gave his life for us. Yes, though I also have done other things among you, this day I forget them, this day I lay claim to the salient purpose and fact of my ministry, to-wit, that I preached to you law and gospel. And as I leave you with this claim that no man can dispute, I charge you so remember me.

"I, too, have been with you in much weakness, a man of many imperfections and shortcomings. Moses, the great prophet, as the psalmist tells us, under provocation spoke unadvisedly; should I then, during seven eventful years, have been always without fault? Never.

No Man Is Perfect.

"But, you did not call me as your perfect man. You called me as a voice in this world's wilderness, as a pastor under Christ, the only sinless one, to set before you life and death, blessing and cursing. And this I have done; you bear me record, heaven and earth are witnesses. As such then remember me. And now may God be with you. Soon, God willing, under another leader, you will pass the little stretch that lies between you and your beautiful new church home. Another voice will preach therein and exhort you in Christ's stead. May the message and purpose ever be the same. And then, when after another little while our earthly camping ground shall fade from broken eyes, may we meet in our Father's home above, our sins all forgiven, life and bliss unmarred forever ours."

Church Was Reopened.

The Alpha Evangelical Lutheran church of Turtle Creek was reopened yesterday with interesting services. The church has been closed all summer for repairs and redecoration. There was a Sunday school rally at 9:45 a. m. in charge of the superintendent, William G. Lane. Two services were held, one in the morning and one in the evening, conducted respectively by the pastor and the Rev. E. E. Dietz, who had charge of the church when it was first organized.

GOSPEL JUBILEE WAS EXPLAINED

REV. GLADDEN PREACHES IN KNOXVILLE.

Ancient Hebrew Jubilee Meant the Cancellation of All Obligations.

President W. H. Gladden of the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Protestant church occupied the pulpit of the Conference church, Knoxville, yesterday morning. His subject was "The Gospel Jubilee." "Our gospel text," he said, "is a beautiful description of the gospel as foreshadowed by the jubilee festival of the Jews.

"The blessings of the jubilee were very great. Every 50 years there was an adjustment of conditions. It was a time of regathering for the scattered household. Various were the agencies which scattered these Jewish families, but at the jubilee each member of the family turned his face to the dear old home. There was a reunion. It is not possible in the world for families to remain long together. If nothing else operates against the family circle death mows us down.

"In the Jewish families there was a cancellation of debt, a universal extinction of all obligations. Can you catch the spirit and force of this great provision of israel's God?

Freed from All Debt.

"Here is a man who has toiled almost day and night that he may be able to retain the old homestead, but fate seems against him. Calamities thick and fast overtake him.

"At last he relinquishes his claim, goes out into the world penniless. A glad morning dawns again, and when the trumpet notes herald the dawn of the jubilee year he rejoices that he owes no man. With the tread of a conqueror he returns. And so this feature of the jubilee typifies to us our own awful debt to the Creator.

"Our sins have brought upon us tremendous obligations. Judgment has been entered against us in the courts of heaven. But we are exonerated. Jesus pays it all with his precious blood.

Christ Cancels Sin.

"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. The judgment note is cancelled, let him begin anew. So that as the jubilee restored forefeited possessions, so Christ brings to us the restoration of all that we lost by sin. Where sin abounds grace shall much more abound. This is what the gospel means.

"The year of jubilee emancipated slaves, for there were slaves in those days, as 18 centuries later. The glory of the nineteenth century is that it banished human slavery from the earth. May we not hope that this twentieth century may complete the emancipation by breaking the bonds of spiritual slavery. All the physical slavery this world has known is not comparable to the enslavement of sin."

REV. J. W. RIGHTER WAS REGULARLY ORDAINED

Pastor of the Mt. Washington M. P. Church Celebrated Five Years' Course.

The Rev. J. W. Righter, pastor of the Mt. Washington Methodist Protestant church, was regularly ordained yesterday morning in the Knoxville church, President W. H. Gladden of the Pittsburgh conference presiding. Mr. Righter has been connected with the Methodist Protestant church for five years, and it was a surprise to not a few when it developed that he was not ordained. Mr. Righter was licensed, however, and is reputed to be one of the most earnest workers in the church.

According to the discipline of this denomination, every candidate must have completed a four-years' course under the direction of the conference before he is ordained. There are half a dozen or more holding charges hereabouts who are not ordained. Mr. Righter passed the final examinations Saturday afternoon. Harlan L. Feeman passed the third year and several others the first. A son of President Gladden completed the preliminaries. He is a student of Adrian college.

It is stated that Mr. Righter will not be among those who are to be transferred this year. In the matter of the several ministers who have come recommended by other conferences for admission to the Pittsburgh conference the itineracy committee advised that they be given work but not be received into the conference this year. There are seven in all, including the Rev. G. H. Sisson of Muncie, Ind. Each of them is to be assigned to the various vacancies created by the recent changes.

A denominational rally of the Methodist Protestant Endeavorers was held yesterday afternoon on the broad grounds adjoining the residence of J. F. Grimes. Addresses were made by the Rev. Z. C. Roberts, J. S. Leland and others. The conference expects to complete its work tomorrow morning.

LAST IN SCHENLEY.

The Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young Winds Up Summer Park Services There.

The remarkable series of sermons conducted in Schenley park during the summer by the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young closed last night. The final services were attended by an unusually large gathering. Bartley's band and Benjamin F. Butts and chorus rendered the music. There have been numerous conversions at the after meetings held in the park this summer. In the course of his address last night Dr. Young said: "The most tremendous fact of life is that you can get the Almighty under contract with you and yourself in bargain with the Almighty. Jacob agreed that if Jehovah would do three things Jacob would do three things. Jehovah was to take him on his journey to Pedan Aram, clothe and feed him and bring him back. Jacob agreed that Jehovah would be his God, that the stone at Bethel would be God's house, and that Jacob would give the tenth of everything he possessed to God.

"These words come to people tonight, everyone of whom has solemnly vowed to the Almighty, and everyone of whom has a broken vow. As Jacob went to redeem his pledge, under the open sky, above the rocky field of Bethel, you come here this night beneath God's skies, and they witness to your covenant with him. For the man who breaks his word with me can I have respect? But what of the man unfaithful to his vow to God?"

The last park service of all will be held in West park, Allegheny, next Sunday evening.

This Week the Store Closes at 5 P. M.

Today, Autumn Fashions With a Dessert of Special Sales.

Singularly whimsical are we Americans. In the midst of one season we are planning for another and looking forward to it with the greatest of impatience, though enjoying that present season with all the fervor imaginable.

Here we are into Autumn. You, perhaps, began thinking about it last July. Our thoughts, as leaders in the fashionable things of dress, were on the Autumn season as far back as last May.

We commenced to plan of course in the interest of our public. And it is the most delightful occupation ever was, this planning ahead for a coming season.

We are quite ready for you—ready with the most charming weaves of foreign silks and dress goods; ready with the best of the same goods made in our own country; ready with the handsomest of Suits and Jackets and Waists for women; ready with the cleanest cut Suits and Overcoats for men and boys; ready with everything for both men and women that pertains to the Autumn season.

Today, besides seeing and endorsing the new fashions, we have a

for you that will be interesting because of their economical side.

We refrain from a repetition of prices, and simply ask you to look in upon us and see what we have prepared.

Several late arrivals Saturday need mention, of which we select two for breakfast-table reading.

Cotton Vestings.

A new heavy cotton material that has taken the East by storm. For the making of natty shirtwaists it will be in high favor.

Three of their best points are: (1) They will wash; (2) they are very, very pretty; (3) they are copies of men's vestings that retail for $3 and $4 a yard.

Such admirable cloth has never appeared for wearing 'neath the Autumn jacket.

We could sing their praises at length, but prefer to let you anticipate a trifle. See them today at rear of dress goods aisle, main floor, and notice the popular prices attached to them.

50c, 65c, 75c, 85c, $1 a Yard.

Bishop-Front Linen Collars.

An original novelty for women, and one to be thoroughly admired.

Not because we originated the style, or because Pittsburg women will be the first to wear them, but for the sprightly effect they will lend to the wearer.

While in Berlin the past Summer we had made to our special order, after our own design, this Bishop-Front Linen Collar, and we are quite sure its stylishness will appeal to women who care for the exclusive.

Ready for your comments today.

$1.00 to $2.00 Each.
